Food Prices To Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail food prices now are expected to continue rising for the rest of the year to a level about 15 per cent above 1973, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

They could go even higher than that, an economist said. The department had been saying that a 12 per cent rise was most likely, and that most of it already has occurred.

Last year, food prices rose 14.5 per cent above the 1972 average. That increase was the highest since a 21 per cent jump between 1945 and 1946.

The department also released its July market basket survey showing that the average family's yearly food costs actually declined three-tenths of one per cent in July. The market basket measures the amount a hypothetical urban wage earner's family of 3.2 persons would spend on food in a year.

The figure is still 12.9 per cent above mid-summer 1973, just before a record monthly increase last August.

The figures showed that for the first time since February, the prices farmers received rose, while retailers and wholesalers share of the grocery shoppers dollar fell.

The report on the national food situation revised the department's prediction range for the average 1974 food-price jump to 13 to 17 per cent instead of 8 to 16 per cent.

The final figure depends largely on the weather this fall and on price-based changes in demand by consumers, livestock feeders and exporters, an economist on the Outlook and Situation Board said.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz had estimated a 14 per cent rise just two weeks ago as the effects of severe drought became clearer. But the economists said that "we felt we just had to give a little more on the upward side."

Instead of remaining steady from July through September and declining from October through December, food prices now could show a climb of as much as 6 or 7 per cent more for the last six months of this year, about half of it coming in each quarter.

The economists analysis of the food situation as of mid-August also projects:

—An increase in per capita food consumption of 1.5 per cent over last year's slump, to record high level even though animal-related products will only recover their 1973 losses.

—A fall in over-all production of U.S. farm food for 1974, with a nearly 8 per cent decline in crops more than offsetting a 4 per cent rise in livestock.

—A possible decline in exports of farm foods to more than 10 per cent below the 1973 record.

The analysis also revealed that total spending for food this spring was nearly 15 per cent above that for the year before because of higher prices.

The market basket figures indicated that an administration push for reduced margins in the processing and marketing links of the food chain last June may have had an effect.

The USDA survey, which is based on 61 U.S. farm-produced foods, showed farm prices 2.6 per cent below a year ago but 3.8 per cent above June.

The difference between what the farmer got and the supermarket charged dropped 3 per cent from June but was 26.7 per cent above July 1973, when food price controls were just coming off in a time of cost-profit squeeze for retailers.

Economy Bad In Ford's Eyes

Washington (AP) — President Ford views America's economic problems as "very grievous" but wants to avoid a wild, scattered attack on them, his spokesman said Friday.

As Ford completed his second week in office, Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst spoke of the President's desire to come up with a package of solutions to the problems of inflation, rising prices and high interest rates.

TerHorst indicated that announcement of these proposals would not come until after an economic summit conference scheduled for late September.

The President, he said, does not want to "act in cowboy fashion . . . someone who runs down the middle of the street and shoots at both sides without a specific target."

But terHorst said Ford wants to remain flexible enough so that if specific economic problems demand attention he can "move on them independently."

As the spokesman was discussing the economy, Ford was completing an hour-long meeting with Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam.

During the Oval Office session also attended by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, terHorst said, Ford stressed Syria's "underlying importance" in efforts to achieve permanent peace in the Middle East.

The meeting with Khaddam was part of a series of sessions Ford is holding with Arab and Israeli leaders to prepare for the next stage of Middle East negotiations.

On domestic issues, terHorst repeated that Ford hopes a session of Congress after the November elections can be avoided. He reported that the President plans to send congressional leaders a letter after Labor Day outlining his priorities for legislative action.

Ford conferred privately with Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield in the Oval Office.

2 Girls Hurt In Collision

Two girls were hospitalized at Lincoln General hospital with injuries suffered in a car-truck accident Friday at 27th and Superior.

Police identified the two as Debra Corliss, 21, 2314 S. 17th, and MaryAnn Pfeifer, Fremont. The driver of the pickup truck, Keverne Spatz, 20, Malcolm, and a child were also hospitalized.

Police said the two girls were thrown from their car in the crash.

Police said the car was northbound on Superior when it was in collision with the truck, westbound on 27th.

After the collision the truck apparently rammed a power pole, snapping it in two places, and leaving a section hanging from the wires. Lincoln Electric System employees were making repairs.

Youth-in-Action Sewing, Cow-Showing Keep 4-H Girl Winning

By PATTY BEUTLER

Marcia Nelson is equally at ease modeling clothes she has made or manhandling cows she's showing at the Lancaster County Fair.

After seven years of 4-H and as many annual showings the county fair — with her fair share of purple ribbons — competing in both the cows and the clothes comes naturally.

This year Marcia sewed her way into the semi-finals of the school clothes division of the dress revue with a three-piece wool plaid outfit.

"I've been working on it off and on since February," the young seamstress said of the 18-piece pattern outfit.

"I'd get so mad at it I'd put it away for weeks, and then go back to it," Marcia said.

Take Time

She believes that if you take your time and sew, you'll have a better turn out than if you do a rush job.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurel Nelson, Davey, Marcia has lived on her family's farm all her life and wouldn't have it any differently. City life is not for her, she says.

"I've always had a childish dream about living out on a ranch," she admitted, but finds herself getting farther away from making it a reality because the market for cows is not so good now, she feels.

Breaks Cows

Her dad has about 80 cows at their 4-N Angus farm. Marcia broke in and groomed two feeder calves and two breeding heifers for the county fair.

"Every animal has a different personality. — some are easy to get along with and some are mules," she declared.

One of her calves, she said, likes to snuggle up to her for affection, and will get mad if she's pushed away.

Out in the show ring Marcia says she talks to her cows to keep them from getting jittery. "I try to be real soothing to them just like to a little kid — you have to be reassuring."

Marcia also rides and says "my horse, before I got my drivers license, was my transportation. It's cheaper than gas."

A junior at Waverly High School, Marcia is looking forward to three more years with the Gingham Gang, her 4-H sewing and cooking group, and Willing Hands, her 4-H livestock club.

Rocky Suggests Letting Ex-President Off Hook

SEAL HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller said Friday "the tone and mood of the country" is that former President Richard M. Nixon should not face criminal prosecution in the Watergate case.

Rockefeller endorsed a statement by Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who said two days after Nixon's resignation that he should face no further action.

In two news conferences at his vacation home here, Rockefeller said he thought Scott's was a very good expression, but declined to elaborate on his own views about prosecution.

"I don't know about the legal arguments," the former New York governor said at the second of those sessions.

At the first news conference, Rockefeller was asked whether he would support amnesty for Nixon. He replied by citing Scott's Aug. 11 statement.

Scott said then that most congressional leaders "would wish that nothing further happens to former President Nixon . . ."

"Everyone hopes we can say enough is enough," Scott said. "This is the end. There has been a pound of flesh. Hanging is enough without drawing and quartering."

After quoting part of the Scott statement, Rockefeller said: "I thought it was a very good expression."

He also said, "It doesn't seem to me, as he said, that he (Nixon) should in addition be drawn and quartered."

Later in the day, Rockefeller held a second news conference for newsmen who had not been on hand at the first. Asked directly whether he personally opposed prosecution of Nixon, Rockefeller said, "I don't know about the legal arguments," and again quoted Scott.

He said the Scott statement "reflected the mood and the atmosphere of the Congress and the American people."

Dow Goes Down

New York (AP) — The Dow Jones industrial average, a leading indicator of performance on the New York Stock Exchange, slid 17.83 points Friday to 686.80 — its first close under 700 since July 9, 1970.

It was also the biggest one-day drop in the blue chip barometer in nearly seven weeks. The main selling targets continued to be big-name glamour issues, which one analyst now calls "former glimmers."

The NYSE composite index, a more broadly based market index, fell 0.65 to 37.55, a record low since it was established in present form nine years ago.

Selling pressure was moderate, with volume totaling 13.59 million shares.

Analysts continued to blame pervasive concern over inflation, high interest rates and lack of confidence in the economy. Those concerns have taken the Dow some 90 points lower in the last two weeks.

Feminist: Women Lack Political, Business Clout

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

"To be a feminist is a particularly patriotic thing to be," said Mary O'Halloran of Cedar Falls, Iowa.

One of six women in the Iowa House of Representatives, Ms. O'Halloran, a native of Ord, was the second youngest woman ever elected to the state legislature and the first ever to campaign as a feminist.

Women have "no clout" in politics, in education, in business, she told the 30 women attending the state convention of the infant Nebraska Women's Political Caucus.

Must Organize

"It won't change until we organize ourselves around our interests and withhold our services" in those arenas, said the feminist politician who attended Creighton University, spent eight years in a Catholic convent and was graduated from Clarke College in Dubuque.

For some time, women in politics have been behind the scenes, doing "all the lickin' and stickin'," Ms. O'Halloran said. "Male politicians see us as . . . subservient."

However, the number of women seeking elective political office has increased 76% since the recent founding of the National Women's Political Caucus, she noted.

Teacher Turned Politician

The 31-year-old schoolteacher-turned-politician told the Nebraska women about how a small gathering of Iowa women grew into the 5,000-member Iowa Women's Political Caucus and, within a year's time, virtually turned around state politics and law.

Assuming "every woman is a feminist," the Iowa organization set out to "build a feminist outlook into the structure of our society," Ms. O'Halloran said.

Their success story hinged upon the Iowa women's effort to organize "around real things across social and political lines."

Changed Issues

Issues were selected and, within a year, the Iowa caucus helped change every law it had attacked, she said.

—Rape. The attack was aimed at "the double standard at its worse," Iowa's rape law requiring corroboration of the woman's testimony and permitting her sexual history to be admitted as evidence.

—Day care.

Patty Hearst May Be In L.A.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Investigators say the mother of a San Quentin convict may be hiding Patricia Hearst and two other Symbionese Liberation Army fugitives in the Los Angeles area, it was reported Friday.

The San Francisco Examiner said authorities believe the wanted trio went to the convict's mother for help after a May 17 shootout in Los Angeles in which six of their companions were slain.

The paper said police have speculated that the woman found a house in a racially integrated neighborhood for Miss Hearst and Bill and Emily Harris.

However, the Examiner said that if such a hideout exists, authorities have not found it.

The Examiner story by Ed Montgomery, Pulitzer Prize-winning investigative reporter, said the Harris visited the black convict and his brother in prison and became acquainted with the prisoners' mother. Neither the identity of the convict nor details of his crime were revealed.

Earlier Friday the San Francisco Chronicle reported that a car found at a former SLA

Goodrich Warns Owners Of Emergency Spare Tire

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Concerned over injuries and deaths "because of product abuse," the B.F. Goodrich Co. on Friday warned owners of its emergency-type spare tire to use and inflate the tires "strictly according to operating instructions."

Goodrich said there have been two deaths and 17 injury cases "all apparently involving improper inflation or installation of the Space Saver by users."

The foldable tire, introduced in 1967, normally comes uninflated and mounted on a spare wheel. It usually is not inflated until needed and is designed for limited service as an emergency spare, Goodrich said.

Goodrich spokesmen said the statement advising users was issued voluntarily as part of a plan for inspection and consumer safety information. The firm has been holding discussions with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, which has been investigating the death and injury reports, a spokesman said.

The firm said that "deviation from specified instructions could result in serious personal injury."

The tire comes with a pressurized air container and with instructions warning against use of high-pressure air hoses, Goodrich said.

Edward M. Bader, director of quality assurance for the Goodrich tire division, said the Space Saver always should be restrained before inflation by bolting it to the axle hub in replacing the disabled tirewheel assembly.

Bader also said no inflation device other than the pressurized container provided with the tire should be used for inflating the tire. He said that no one except Goodrich-trained tire personnel should try to take the tire off its rim or to repair it.

The tire has a maximum air capacity of 35 pounds' pressure, he said, adding that exceeding the maximum "could result in a violent rupture of the tire."

Kunstler, Lane Ordered To Jail

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A U.S. District Court Judge ordered attorneys William Kunstler and Mark Lane jailed Friday following a courtroom disruption during the Wounded Knee trial.

U.S. District Judge Fred Nicol ordered marshals to take Kunstler and Lane into custody during the noisy, disorderly end to Friday's session.

Two American Indian Movement (AIM) members, who refused to leave their seats, were carried out by marshals, and one officer used a chemical spray on another protester.

Nicol met with other lawyers in his chambers after recessing court but declined to back down from his decision to jail Kunstler and Lane on charges of contempt of court. The attorneys were booked at the St. Paul jail. Although Nicol did not indicate how long he intended Kunstler and Lane to remain in jail, he said he might reconsider his order Saturday morning.

Kunstler and Lane are among five attorneys representing Russell Means and Dennis Banks, accused of assault, larceny and conspiracy in the 71-day armed occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D., last year.

Kunstler was making an exhaustive cross-examination of

Defendants Permitted Access To Own Files

Washington (UPI) — The White House has reinstated former President Richard Nixon's policy of permitting Watergate defendants to inspect their papers for use in court, press secretary J. F. terHorst said Friday.

TerHorst said he understands that Nixon's former top assistants were permitted to look at their records and to take notes but they could not remove or copy them.

H. R. Haldeman, former White House chief of staff, was the first to use the files since the change of administrations. He appeared alone at the Executive Office Building and stayed nearly four hours.

The office of the White House legal counsel cleared the reinstatement of that policy with Nixon, who is presently in San Clemente, Calif.

Lawyers of Nixon's former chief domestic adviser, John D. Ehrlichman, complained in court earlier this week that the White House was not permitting the same access to his papers which it formerly had.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Investigators say the mother of a San Francisco convict may be hiding Patricia Hearst and two other Symbionese Liberation Army fugitives in the Los Angeles area, it was reported Friday.

The San Francisco Examiner said authorities believe the wanted trio went to the convict's mother for help after a May 17 shootout in Los Angeles in which six of their companions were slain.

tegrated neighborhood for Miss Hearst and Bill and Emily Harris.

The Examiner story by Ed Montgomery, Pulitzer Prize-winning investigative reporter, said the Harrises visited the black convict and his brother in prison and became acquainted with the prisoners' mother. Neither the identity of the convict nor details of his crime were revealed.

Earlier Friday the San Francisco Chronicle reported that a car found at a former SLA

hideout in suburban Daly City may be the vehicle the terrorists used to kidnap Miss Hearst on Feb. 4.

The Chronicle said Berkeley detectives determined that the 1964 green and white station wagon was bought 18 days before the kidnapping by Harris and that it was driven less than 100 miles after he bought it. The car was abandoned in the garage of a bungalow which police and the FBI say was used by the SLA, the newspaper said.

The FBI said Miss Hearst was never in the Daly City house. It believes the bungalow was occupied by Angela Atwood and Patricia Soltysik, two of six SLA members slain in the Los Angeles shootout.

But the Chronicle said Berkeley detectives believe Miss Hearst was taken immediately to the Daly City house when she was kidnapped from her Berkeley apartment. They said holes in the wall of a closet in the house indicate the newspaper heiress may have been chained to it.

Miss Hearst, Harris and his wife, Emily, are sought by the FBI on a variety of charges including bank robbery and kidnapping.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A U.S. District Court Judge ordered attorneys William Kunstler and Mark Lane jailed Friday following a courtroom disruption during the Wounded Knee trial.

U.S. District Judge Fred Nichol ordered marshals to take Kunstler and Lane into custody during the noisy, disorderly end to Friday's session.

Two American Indian Movement (AIM) members, who refused to leave their seats, were carried out by marshals, and one officer used a chemical spray on another protestor.

Kunstler and Lane are among five attorneys representing Russell Means and Dennis Banks, accused of assault, larceny and conspiracy in the 71-day armed occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D., last year.

Kunstler was making an exhaustive cross-examination of a government rebuttal witness when the incident began.

After one question there was subdued murmuring and laughter from a row of spectators.

"I've been noticing that group of AIM people for some time," said Nichol. He said he'd been generous in allowing sympathizers of the defendants to have considerable spectator space, but they hadn't abided by his warning not to talk or laugh.

He then ordered: "Marshals, clear that third row of spectators."

Marshals then carried out Clyde and Vernon Bellecourt, two hefty brothers and leaders in the AIM movement. Marshals also dragged out a young woman. About three others in the row left but not before one of them, identified as Maynard Stanley, was sprayed by mace when he tried to pull a marshal away from Clyde Bellecourt.

The foreign minister's remarks came a few hours after he, Premier Constantine Caramanlis and Defense Minister Evangelos Averoff-Tossitsas met in the Greek capital with President Glafcos Clerides of Cyprus.

Clerides said: "There's no point in going to Geneva merely to sign what has been taken by force. For us, guerrilla warfare is a necessity."

Turkish invasion forces have taken control of about 40 per cent of Cyprus — with the stated purpose of protecting the island's Turkish population, outnumbered 4-1 by Greek Cypriots.

The Geneva talks, which collapsed just before Turkey's final military push, involved Britain, Greece and Turkey — guarantors by treaty of the island's independence — with Greek and Turkish Cypriots as consultants.

Jackson Fears Impact Of Gas Tax, Decontrol

WASHINGTON (AP) — American consumers would pay about $20 billion in higher oil prices and taxes if the Ford administration agrees to decontrol oil prices and place a new 10-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Friday.

"The implementation of these proposals would increase every electric bill, every heating oil bill, every gasoline bill in America," Jackson told a news conference. "The impact on consumers would be devastating."

Jackson criticized President's Ford's inherited economic advisers — principally Roy Ash, chief of the Office of Management and Budget — for the steps the administration is reportedly considering.

They would mean that the price of so-called "old domestic crude oil would be allowed to rise from the present controlled price of $5.25 per barrel to around $10 or $11 per barrel, he said.

Jackson said that step would cost the oil-consuming public about $9.4 billion per year in added fuel costs.

The 10-cent tax would add almost $10 billion to the public's gas bill at current rates of consumption," he said.

"Thus, in the midst of a 10 per cent inflation, the administration is considering steps that would cost the American people at least $20 billion.

"And it would create enormous windfall profits for oil producers without adding one ounce to domestic production."

"Old" domestic crude oil refers to that amount of oil production inside the United States that is equal to or below 1972 production levels.

The proposal to allow the prices of such oil to increase is said to come from an administration working paper prepared by officials of the President's Council of Economic Advisers and the Federal Energy Administration. White House officials said Thursday the tax increase is one of many plans under consideration to reduce inflation.

Jackson did not specifically call for Ash's resignation. But he did single him out for special mention.

He predicted that if the proposals are made official, some utility companies dependent on oil for power will go bankrupt.

And he said he would expect to see a "sympathetic rise" in the prices of coal and gas.

Meanwhile, Rep. Richard H. Fulton, D-Tenn., a member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said a tax increase on gasoline would be severely regressive.

Fulton, in a statement, said: "The poor would pay a highly inequitable portion of the tax and it would impact most heavily on their income. At the same time, they would be forced to consume less gasoline which is so necessary to all of us in earning our daily bread and keep."

Nickname 'Bridgette'

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Atkins of Davenport, Iowa, admire their new daughter who was born Friday in the middle of the Interstate 74 bridge over the Mississippi River between Moline, Ill., and Bettendorf, a Davenport suburb. The Atkinses were on their way to Lutheran Hospital in Moline when Angela Marie arrived early. She'll be listed as an Illinois birth. Nurses nicknamed her "Bridgette."

West European Farmers Dramatize Price Dilemma

Brussels (AP) — West European farmers used shock tactics first to publicize low pay for producers — hanging pigs from lampposts and emptying milk tankers into sewers. Now they're selling their products on the street at rockbottom prices to show how much the middleman is taking.

On the Meir, Antwerp's busiest shopping center, farmers were selling eggs Friday at 29 cents for six. Shops nearby asked about 44 cents.

The farmers say they want to show that the average citizen that they, too, are caught in a price squeeze and it's the middlemen who make the profit on food.

A spokesman for the French National Farmers Federation said, "We haven't taken the initiative to urge our members to sell directly to the public, but in view of the sharp increase in middlemen's profits, we do not condemn the tendency."

In France farm products often pass through five or six hands before reaching the consumer. One Belgian newspaper complained that a pound of potatoes sold by the farmer for one cent costs the consumer more than six cents.

In an attempt to prevent the squeeze from getting worse,

Pierre Lardinois, the Common Market's agriculture commissioner, will fly to Washington on Tuesday, reportedly to tell Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz that Europeans are worried the United States will cut its exports of corn and soybeans.

If it does, the price of these animal feeds is bound to go up in Europe, raising the cost of the chicken, beef and pork in the family shopping basket.

Agriculture ministers of the nine Common Market countries are scheduled to meet after Lardinois returns from Washington. Most ministers already have called for price increases and other ways of helping farmers.

Pan Am Seeks Federal Subsidy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's largest international airline, Pan American World Airways, said Friday it soon could run out of cash to meet its financial obligations unless the government grants it a subsidy.

Pan Am's announcement came as it asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to establish as quickly as possible a temporary subsidy to tide the carrier over while the board is considering Pan Am's request for what the board calls a "final" subsidy.

The carrier said the board obviously is many months away from deciding whether to grant Pan Am a final subsidy and added "Pan American's financial condition does not permit that type of delay."

It said its current projects show it will have to borrow money by October and added that its credit agreement with 36 banks allowing it to borrow up to $205.5 million could be endangered unless the board sets a temporary subsidy.

That agreement, the carrier said, requires Pan Am to maintain a net worth of more than $300 million. Pan Am said it's net worth would be below that figure by this winter unless government aid is granted.

Pan Am has lost money for the past five years but was headed toward a profit last year when the fuel crisis hit.

Pet Food Worrisome To Some Officials

NEW YORK (AP) — The food for the nation's 70 million cats and dogs is of growing concern to some government officials who are looking for ways to avoid a new round of meat shortages and higher food prices.

"Pet food companies have been stealing our precious cattle feed by outbidding the farmers and driving the price of feed grain up," says George Allen, economist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C.

"We pay at least five cents more a pound for our meat because of the pet food industry and as much as 10 cents a pound in a tight grain market."

Allen, who told a reporter that he spoke only for himself, later denied making the comments and said he had refused to make estimates on costs added by pet food demand.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L.

Butz, however, has contended that those who would increase world food supplies by reducing Americans' consumption "could make the first onslaught on this noble goal by reducing our dog and cat population by 50 per cent, which likewise would suddenly release more grain for the world."

Pet food industry spokesmen say the industry brings the price of human food down by providing the farmer and meat processor with a profitable outlet for meat by-products.

"A rather large percentage of meat is not useable as human food and is left as by-product," says Dwaine Ekedahl, executive chairman of the Pet Food Institute in Washington, D.C.

"As a result of the production of pet foods, food for human consumption is available at a lower cost because the farmer and processor have an economic outlet for their by-products."

Impartial observers say the truth normally lies somewhere in between, but in the present tight grain situation, government officials may be more on target.

"My experience with feed by-products indicates that pet food use of by-products more than makes up for any increases in the price of corn they create," says Joe Kelly, vice president and head of the food and beverage division for Delafield Childs, a leading New York City brokerage house.

"But in the current situation where carryover corn stock will be at an all-time low, the amount of corn used by the pet food industry if added to that carry-over would increase it by 50 per cent which would have a significant effect on the price of corn."

The Pet Food Institute, a trade association, estimates that cats and dogs will consume 4.2

million tons of commercially prepared pet food in 1974. The principal ingredients are roughly two million tons of corn feed grain, one million tons of meat by-products and 260,000 tons of soybean meal. And experts predict an annual 8 per cent growth in pet food consumption for the next several years.

Although the corn used by pet food companies is only 1.2 per cent of this year's total expected corn feed production, it is important to government officials when viewed against the poor yield of weather beaten grain crops in the 1974-75 season. USDA officials say the corn yield will be 12 per cent below last year's already depleted levels and soybeans are expected to fall short by 16 per cent.

Industry analysts also say pet food processors have greater sales growth and wider profit margins each year than most other businesses.

"Sales growth has been roughly 12 to 15 per cent each year for the last five," says L. Craig Carver, food analyst with Piper, Jaffray & Hopwood, a brokerage house in Minneapolis, Minn.

"And their profit margins are at least twice that of most other businesses — about 18-20 per cent."

Rain, Flood Pelt Drought-Stricken Sub-Sahara

Rome (UPI) — Torrential rains and floods pelted Africa south of the Sahara Desert Friday, bringing relief from a catastrophic, six-year drought but at the same time hampering food relief shipments.

A spokesman for the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization called the rains a "mixed blessing."

"If the rains continue through September we may see a reasonably good harvest in a region that has suffered through a six-year drought," he said.

He said the floodwaters have washed out roads and isolated some communities that were previously accessible only by foot and camel caravans and thousands of tons of food donated by producing nations were piling up in African ports for lack of sufficient transport into the interior.

Six nations have been hurt badly by the drought — Chad, Mali, Mauritania, Niger, Senegal and Upper Volta — over a belt of Africa stretching more than 2,140 miles south of the Sahara.

Millions of cattle, sheep, and other farm animals have been lost, with some herds reduced by 80% or more, FAO statistics show. Crop production shriveled and people were forced to eat seed grains to replace normal food stocks.

No one knows for sure how many of the 25 million Africans suffering from the drought died from starvation or from diseases resulting from malnutrition. Estimates have ranged from tens of thousands of fatalities to more than a million.

Jackson Fears Impact Of Gas Tax, Decontrol

WASHINGTON (AP) — American consumers would pay about $20 billion in higher oil prices and taxes if the Ford administration agrees to decontrol oil prices and place a new 10-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Friday.

"The implementation of these proposals would increase every electric bill, every heating oil bill, every gasoline bill in America," Jackson told a news conference. "The impact on consumers would be devastating."

Jackson criticized President's Ford's inherited economic advisers — principally Roy Ash, chief of the Office of Management and Budget — for the steps the administration is reportedly considering.

They would mean that the price of so-called "old domestic crude oil would be allowed to rise from the present controlled price of $5.25 per barrel to around $10 or $11 per barrel, he said.

Jackson said that step would cost the oil-consuming public about $9.4 billion per year in added fuel costs.

The 10-cent tax would add almost $10 billion to the public's gas bill at current rates of consumption," he said.

"Thus, in the midst of a 10 per cent inflation, the administration is considering steps that would cost the American people at least $20 billion.

"And it would create enormous windfall profits

for oil producers without adding one ounce to domestic production."

"Old" domestic crude oil refers to that amount of oil production inside the United States that is equal to or below 1972 production levels.

The proposal to allow the prices of such oil to increase is said to come from an administration working paper prepared by officials of the President's Council of Economic Advisers and the Federal Energy Administration. White House officials said Thursday the tax increase is one of many plans under consideration to reduce inflation.

Jackson did not specifically call for Ash's resignation. But he did single him out for special mention.

He predicted that if the proposals are made official, some utility companies dependent on oil for power will go bankrupt.

And he said he would expect to see a "sympathetic rise" in the prices of coal and gas.

Meanwhile, Rep. Richard H. Fulton, D-Tenn., a member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said a tax increase on gasoline would be severely regressive."

Fulton, in a statement, said: "The poor would pay a highly inequitable portion of the tax and it would impact most heavily on their income. At the same time, they would be forced to consume less gasoline which is so necessary to all of us in earning our daily bread and keep."

Nickname 'Bridgette'

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Atkins of Davenport, Iowa, admire their new daughter who was born Friday in the middle of the Interstate 74 bridge over the Mississippi River between Moline, Ill., and Bettendorf, a Davenport suburb. The Atkinses were on their way to Lutheran Hospital in Moline when Angela Marie arrived early. She'll be listed as an Illinois birth. Nurses nicknamed her "Bridgette."

West European Farmers Dramatize Price Dilemma

Brussels (AP) — West European farmers used shock tactics first to publicize low pay for producers — hanging pigs from lampposts and emptying milk tankers into sewers. Now they're selling their products on the street at rockbottom prices to show how much the middleman is taking.

On the Meir, Antwerp's busiest shopping center, farmers were selling eggs Friday at 29 cents for six. Shops nearby asked about 44 cents.

The farmers say they want to show that the average citizen that they, too, are caught in a price squeeze and it's the middlemen who make the profit on food.

A spokesman for the French National Farmers Federation said, "We haven't taken the initiative to urge our members to sell directly to the public, but in view of the sharp increase in middlemen's profits, we do not condemn the tendency."

In France farm products often pass through five or six hands before reaching the consumer. One Belgian newspaper complained that a pound of potatoes sold by the farmer for one cent costs the consumer more than six cents.

In an attempt to prevent the squeeze from getting worse,

Pierre Lardinois, the Common Market's agriculture commissioner, will fly to Washington on Tuesday, reportedly to tell Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz that Europeans are worried the United States will cut its exports of corn and soybeans.

If it does, the price of these animal feeds is bound to go up in Europe, raising the cost of the chicken, beef and pork in the family shopping basket.

Agriculture ministers of the nine Common Market countries are scheduled to meet after Lardinois returns from Washington. Most ministers already have called for price increases and other ways of helping farmers.

Pan Am Seeks Federal Subsidy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's largest international airline, Pan American World Airways, said Friday it soon could run out of cash to meet its financial obligations unless the government grants it a subsidy.

Pan Am's announcement came as it asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to establish as quickly as possible a temporary subsidy to tide the carrier over while the board is considering Pan Am's request for what the board calls a "final" subsidy.

The carrier said the board obviously is many months away from deciding whether to grant Pan Am a final subsidy and added "Pan American's financial condition does not permit that type of delay."

It said its current projects show it will have to borrow money by October and added that its credit agreement with 36 banks allowing it to borrow up to $205.5 million could be endangered unless the board sets a temporary subsidy.

That agreement, the carrier said, requires Pan Am to maintain a net worth of more than $300 million. Pan Am said it's net worth would be below that figure by this winter unless government aid is granted.

Pan Am has lost money for the past five years but was headed toward a profit last year when the fuel crisis hit.

Pet Food Worrisome To Some Officials

NEW YORK (AP) — The food for the nation's 70 million cats and dogs is of growing concern to some government officials who are looking for ways to avoid a new round of meat shortages and higher food prices.

"Pet food companies have been stealing our precious cattle feed by outbidding the farmers and driving the price of feed grain up," says George Allen, economist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C.

"We pay at least five cents more a pound for our meat because of the pet food industry and as much as 10 cents a pound in a tight grain market."

Allen, who told a reporter that he spoke only for himself, later denied making the comments and said he had refused to make estimates on costs added by pet food demand.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L.

Butz, however, has contended that those who would increase world food supplies by reducing Americans' consumption "could make the first onslaught on this noble goal by reducing our dog and cat population by 50 per cent, which likewise would suddenly release more grain for the world."

Pet food industry spokesmen say the industry brings the price of human food down by providing the farmer and meat processor with a profitable outlet for meat by-products.

"A rather large percentage of meat is not useable as human food and is left as by-product," says Dwaine Ekedahl, executive chairman of the Pet Food Institute in Washington, D.C.

"As a result of the production of pet foods, food for human consumption is available at a lower cost because the farmer and processor have an economic outlet for their by-products."

Impartial observers say the truth normally lies somewhere in between, but in the present tight grain situation, government officials may be more on target.

"My experience with feed by-products indicates that pet food use of by-products more than makes up for any increases in the price of corn they create," says Joe Kelly, vice president and head of the food and beverage division for Delafield Childs, a leading New York City brokerage house.

"But in the current situation where carryover corn stock will be at an all-time low, the amount of corn used by the pet food industry if added to that carry-over would increase it by 50 per cent which would have a significant effect on the price of corn."

million tons of commercially prepared pet food in 1974. The principal ingredients are roughly two million tons of corn feed grain, one million tons of meat by-products and 260,000 tons of soybean meal. And experts predict an annual 8 per cent growth in pet food consumption for the next several years.

Although the corn used by pet food companies is only 1.2 per cent of this year's total expected corn feed production, it is important to government officials when viewed against the poor yield of weather beaten grain crops in the 1974-75 season. USDA officials say the corn yield will be 12 per cent below last year's already depleted levels and soybeans are expected to fall short by 16 per cent.

Industry analysts also say pet food processors have greater sales growth and wider profit

Terry Views Comeback

That "deal" that Sen. Terry Carpenter offered Gov. Exon last spring — that Terry would get out of the governor's hair and never run for public office again if the senator lost his bid for the Democratic lieutenant governor nomination — has been unilaterally abrogated.

Although Carpenter wound up at the top of the bottom of the heap, he was a distant second to winner Jerry Whelan and quickly resigned his 48th District legislative seat and went into the unfamiliar and uncomfortable limbo of political retirement.

Now Terry wants back into the action, which should not surprise Nebraskans, familiar as they should be with the Scottsbluff legend's up and down public career. As has been the case with other notable public figures, Terry, the inveterate politician, will not be bound by hasty statements made in the flush of possible victory or the gloom of defeat.

"I've been urged by a respectable cross-section of voters, including businessmen, farmers and working people, to conduct a write-in campaign," Carpenter said this week. "I'm ready to tell them that if a write-in campaign is successful, I would be more than happy to accept the office."

That he would be more than happy to accept the office and will take more than a casual hand in orchestrating the write-in effort is the closest thing to a cinch bet that one will see.

Terry's interest in renewing a political career at age 74 is not without obstacles. He faces a formidable threat from at least one of the two primary election winners, whose names will be on the ballot and who will not be subject to the chancy aspects of asking people to do more than simply mark an "X" on the ballot. And it can be suggested that many of those who honored Terry at his premature retirement may not be persuaded to open the door of the tiger cage one more time.

But if he wins, all those scenarios drawn up relating to a Carpenterless Legislature and the shifting of power and leadership will of course have to be scratched. He will want to get back into it is a big way, as evidenced by his thinking of bidding for the chairmanship of the Appropriations Committee if he regains his seat.

And if it happens, the sparks between the governor's office, no matter who sits there, and the legislative chamber can be expected to fly with renewed intensity. That is not necessarily bad for the state. Nebraskans should not begrudge the man a last hurrah.

Coyotes Or Cultists?

A question relating to the unexplained deaths of a number of cattle is now boggling the minds of authorities and livestock owners in Nebraska and Kansas. Are the weirdly disemboweled carcasses the work of satanist cults, other-worldly beings or nature's predators?

Some of the evidence seems to support the contentions in at least some of the cases that the mutilation is not the result of the eating habits of coyotes or turkey buzzards.

One state official, in the Cattle Brands Division of the secretary of state's office, tends to pooh-pooh any mysterious explanations for the deaths of the cattle. He says they only contribute to alarming farmers and ranchers who are organizing vigilante groups in some parts of the state. But some farmers and law enforcement officials are not certain that the livestock deaths should be attributed only to wild predators.

It shouldn't be impossible for animal pathologists or other experts to determine whether or not predators are to blame and every effort should be extended to get to the bottom of it as quickly as possible.

Meanwhile, that state official, Art Thomsen, raises an important point in stressing the danger of livestock owners organizing armed patrols to deal with the unexplained threat to their cattle. "I'm just afraid of what's going to happen to some stranded motorist or somebody flying low in a place or somebody out with somebody else's wife," Thomsen said.

He's right. Farmers and ranchers can't be treating strange cars or passersby as cohorts of the Devil. Somebody might get hurt.

WILLIAM GRANT STILL

They Had A Dream

Conductor Leopold Stokowski introduced "Afro-American Symphony" to the nation on a 1936 tour with the Philadelphia Philharmonic Orchestra.

In 1937, Stokowski led the Philadelphia Philharmonic in the world premiere performance of "New Symphony in G Minor."

Both symphonies were the work of William Grant Still who has composed scores of operas, ballets, tone poems, choral works and symphonies during a career of more than 50 years. His compositions have been played by major orchestras all over the world.

In addition to his impressive classical credits, Still also has made his mark in the world of popular music. As a musician, he played with several big bands during the 1940s, and he arranged for some of the top singers and bands of that era such as Sophie Tucker, Paul Whiteman and Artie Shaw.

One of Shaw's biggest hits, "Frenesi," was arranged by Still, who also arranged the music for several successful Broadway musicals and Earl Carroll's "Vanities."

During his varied career, Still established many firsts for his race:

He was the first Negro to conduct a major studio orchestra in radio's early days — at New York's station WOR.

His "Afro-American Symphony" was the first major symphony for an American black.

He became the first Negro to conduct a major American symphony orchestra when he led the Los Angeles Philharmonic in a program of his compositions at the Hollywood Bowl in 1936.

Born in Woodville, Miss., in 1895, Still grew up and was educated in Little Rock, Ark. He learned violin as a boy but, when he enrolled at Wilberforce University, he set his sights on a career in medicine.

His love of music soon changed that. Abandoning medicine, he studied music theory and composition at Oberlin Conservatory under noted composer Edgar Varese.

One of his earliest jobs was as an arranger and traveling musician with W. C. Handy, "father" of the blues. Though economic necessity often led him into popular music, Still's interests remained in the classical realm. He wrote music for Columbia Broadcasting System, the 1939

New York World's Fair, West Point Military Academy and the Cleveland Symphony.

In 1944, he won the prize offered by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra for the best overture celebrating its jubilee year.

While other men his age were in their rocking chairs, Still was composing. In 1963, at the age of 68, his one-act opera "Highway No. 1, U.S.A." was premiered at the University of Miami's Festival of Music. After that, when he was 75, he wrote "Symphony No. 5, Western World."

BOB CONSIDINE

New President Wades Right In

NEW YORK — Nobody in the land — Democrat, Republican, Independent, Wallacite or member of the Vegetarian Party — can accuse President Gerald R. Ford of lacking that rare old quality named guts.

—He made his pitch for compassion and leniency for 50,000 war resisters right into the teeth of the most concentrated core of anti-amnesty proponents, the annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

—He chose Nelson Rockefeller as the vice president he wants at his side in the remaining years of this term, to the dismay of some and indignation of others in the GOP.

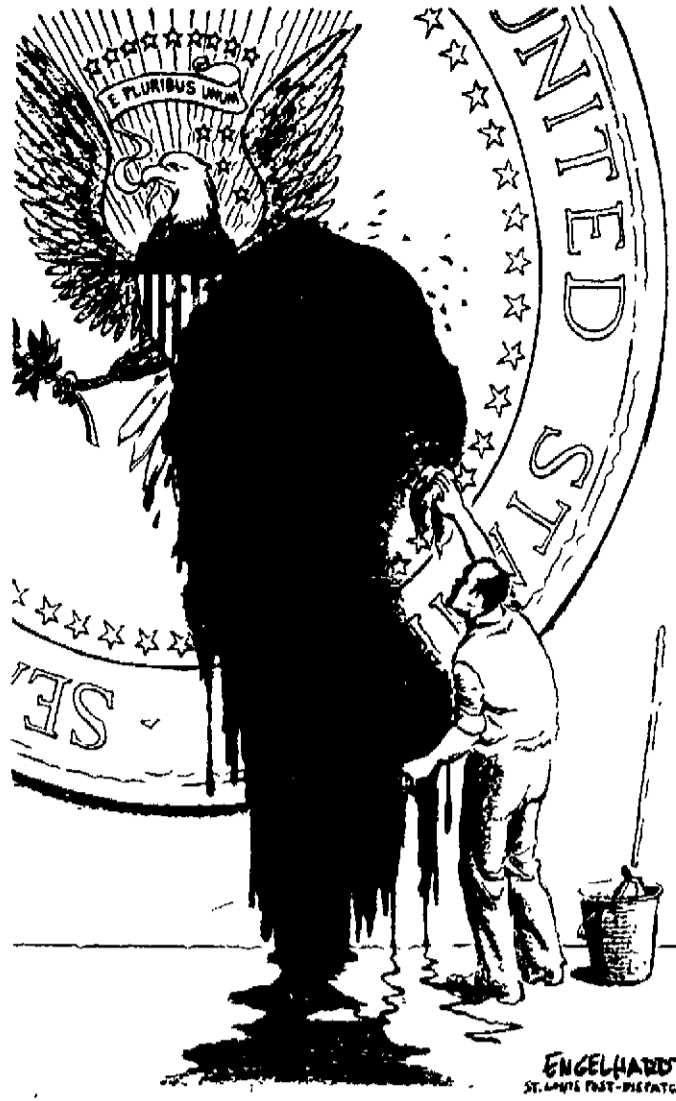

A president can choose his audiences as easily as he can choose the necktie he wants to wear to the office. No other arm of government can veto that presidential whim or decision. Had Ford wished to state that it's high time the nation took another look at the position, imprisonment and self-imposed exile of the men who ducked the war in Vietnam, he could easily have arranged to make known his feelings at a convention of, say, the Americans for Democratic Action, the NAACP, or on any campus in the U.S. The televised applause, thundering, would have impressed millions of Americans who have mixed emotions about those boys who made the hard decision to sit out a war which a vast majority of the public now agrees was a senseless waste of blood, treasure and prestige.

Instead, Ford took his case to as tough a jury as he will ever face. The VFW members and their families are justifiably proud of the military records of their men, and mourn those who were shattered or went unquestioning to their graves in Indochina and wars gone by. Those who came to the big hall in Chicago to hear the new President's first formal speech — and felt honored that he had chosen the VFW as his forum — naturally assumed that he would make the routine presidential vet's speech: "I'm witcha. I'm one of you. We went through hell together." Ford was well into what sounded to the pleased delegates like more of the same when suddenly the applause faltered, chins dropped, and a look of incomprehension came into an acre or two of eyeballs.

He, the President, who had gone through real hell on a carrier off the Philippines in World War II, was saying something that his predecessor would not have dreamed of saying to a VFW (or American Legion) convention! But there it was, bold and blunt as Ford himself: "I'm throwing the weight of my presidency into the scales of justice. I foresee their (the war resisters) earned re-entry into a new atmosphere of hope, hard work and mutual trust."

(The scene recalled Charles de Gaulle's address to 300,000 in the forum of Algiers, just after he had been returned to power. The belief of the vast majority in his audience was that he agreed with them that Algeria must remain a French colony. De Gaulle, in his benedicted general's suit, which had had to be let out by his tailors, told his cheering audience that Algeria had as much right to be independent as Frenchmen at home, a bombshell that still brings goosebumps to a reporter who happened to be there that day. The 300,000 were struck dumb for a moment, then angrily started chanting, "Soustelle... Soustelle!" (for the leader of the "Algerie Francaise" movement).

Now Rocky. Ford was probably in attendance at the Cow Palace in Daly, Calif., in 1964, when the BONN — This capital of West Germany is outwardly as calm these days as an American university town in vacation time, but inwardly it is acutely worried about the world economy.

For while West Germany has the lowest inflation rate of any of the advanced industrial countries — about 7% — it depends for its prosperity and relatively full employment on selling its goods abroad.

Compared to other European countries, it is in excellent shape. Though it still feels amputated with the loss of East Germany, its gross national product per capita is now almost double that of Britain.

As things now stand, West German exports as much to the Western world as the United States and imports almost as much from the Western world, but this trade accounts for about 23% of West Germany's G.N.P., as compared to only about 5% in the United States, which is therefore far more independent of the movements of the world markets.

Accordingly officials here are watching the new Ford administration in Washington with the greatest care. For as they see it, a strong anti-inflation policy in the United States would mean lower prices for American goods, higher unemployment and therefore less U.S. demand for goods from Germany and other countries.

Since West Germany has led the world in combatting inflation, it is aware of the difficulty of arguing that other countries should do the same, but the point emphasized here is that the U.S. economy is five or six times as large as Germany's and that whatever the United States does greatly influences the world economy on which all industrial countries depend more than the U.S.

It is noted here that President Ford's main emphasis in his inaugural address to the Congress was on the need to fight inflation, and that he also spoke of the importance of world peace and order. But how far will he go, officials here ask, not only verbally but actually, on a deflationary policy? Will he look at it mainly from a U.S. point of view, or try to find the delicate balance between just enough anti-inflation to help the United States and not so much as to produce worldwide deflation?

The answer to this, of course, is that Ford has been in office for only a few days, with a new secretary of the treasury, a new chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, and a new world-minded vice presidential nominee, but both the cast of characters and the mood of Washington are changing and nobody can be sure how far the anti-inflation policy will go.

Conversations with officials in Bonn and in other European capitals, however, demonstrate how difficult it is to generalize about America's relations with Europe, especially in the field of economics.

Each country is still looking primarily at its own problems. Thus Germany, Holland and Belgium have had stronger anti-inflation policies than others on this continent. France, before the death of President Pompidou, was more concerned with the growth of her economy than with inflation, but under Giscard is now taking a more deflationary line, while Britain is now in an alarming state, with grievous labor-management problems and an annual inflation rate of 20%.

The members of the European Economic Community are talking more frankly to one another now about their common problems, and the relations of Chancellor Schmidt here and President Giscard in Paris are particularly good, but all leaders are still having trouble in reaching common policies to fit their quite different traditions and economic and political problems.

As the testimony of German officials here shows, however, Europe, no matter how much she may worry about the power of the United States, cannot insulate herself from that power economically or financially any more than she can militarily.

Europe's papers are now full of biographies of the new men in Washington and speculation on what line they will take toward wages and prices in the United States. For while the United States now has 5.3% unemployment and West Germany only 2.3%, unemployment here is seen as a greater menace to the stability of the West German government than it is to the Ford administration.

"The only trouble with U.S.-European relations," the late Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen once said, "is that America is just too damn big and strong. We can absorb troubles others cannot stand. We are more independent of Europe than Europe is of us, and it's hard for people on both sides of the Atlantic to understand the differences."

IRS Termed 'Gestapo'

WASHINGTON — A Senate oversight committee has found that federal tax collectors have been treating ordinary citizens and small businessmen as if they were kingpins on the Nixon "enemies list."

According to a confidential staff memo to the committee chairman, Sen. Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., the Internal Revenue Service has repeatedly failed to give audited taxpayers a statement of their rights during the audit.

The draft report also says the IRS neglected to tell taxpayers they can protest IRS actions in a "small case tax court" where they can file actions without lawyers.

The Montoya report cites "jeopardy assessments" as one of the most flagrant areas of IRS abuse. Under this little-known rule, "property is seized if the agent decides there is a possibility the government will lose the opportunity to collect," charges the report.

In one such case described by the memo, a man was assessed $500,000 when "at no time was his original tax error... more than $25,000." The taxpayer won his case, but it hung over his head for five years and cost him $15,000 in one year alone for legal fees and other expenses.

In the report are horror stories from average taxpayers. Wrote one: "In short, my rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness have been badly kicked around. The Gestapo just marched through..."

When a taxpayer sought to fight back, he was charged $400 "just for a copy of the table of contents of the IRS manual... which tells agents in the field how to operate," said the study. Finally he got a federal district court to order release of information, but according to the report, the IRS told him, "Oh, we don't pay any attention to that directive."

To bring such abuses to a halt, Montoya and Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., are asking Congress to force IRS to go to court within five days to explain any jeopardy assessment. The senators would give the taxpayer rights to a hearing within 10 days and force the IRS to prove that taxes could not be secured through normal legal steps.

Autocratic House Agriculture Chairman Bob Poage, D-Tex., is privately pressuring members of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee to gut two bills protecting streams and wetlands.

Poage wants to open up 150,000 miles of waterways to the bulldozers so his fatcat farmer and land developer friends can get rich.

Republicans chose Sen. Barry Goldwater to lead their run against the heavily entrenched incumbent, President Lyndon Johnson. Assuming his presence, Ford must have witnessed that most savage demonstration against Rockefeller when the then governor of New York and sometime candidate for his party's nomination made an address the convention committee had invited him to deliver.

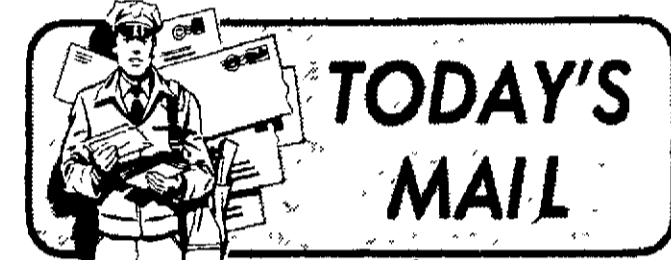

The crude boos, slanderous defamation and brandishing gestures that greeted Rockefeller's measured appeal for a more liberal patina for the GOP were enough to make a John Wayne look around for the nearest exit at the Alamo. Bu Rocky stood his ground against a tidal wave of abuse, and bravely completed his talk.

The doubts of GOP conservatives about him are still apparent in his party. They took a malicious form last week when a proposterous charge was given currency that he resorted to Watergate-type practices and Mafia muscle to try to sabotage the 1972 Democratic convention.

Against that rotten charge — which many automatically believed simply because it was rotten — Ford has reached his hand out to Rockefeller to join him in an historic effort to renew the faith of peoples everywhere on earth in the integrity of the United States.

Miraculous days have come upon us in the nick of time. We have been delivered, delivered into the hands of two gitty, honest guys. May they stay that way!

There have been two recent events that we might think about in connection with the role of the United States. From the standpoint of right thinking, we should try participatory democracy in the United States Supreme Court.

Its unanimous decision that the White House Watergate tapes should be turned over to the district court was wrong. They were first of all the President's own property. Under the Fifth Amendment, a defendant is not required to give evidence against himself.

Secondly, tapes, like lie-detector tests, are not admissible as evidence. There are ways electronically to duplicate and change tapes. There are mental and emotional ways of beating the lie-detectors.

The Supreme Court in this case caved in to 70% public opinion. It would be interesting to know what the first vote was before it was made unanimous. The senator from Nebraska had every right under the rules of evidence to defend the President until the last.

During my three years as director of the Legal Aid Society, I grew to know Rev. Sandall very well. This was a truly unselfish and giving human being. He never sought credit but was always there when people were in need. ## Terry Views Comeback

That "deal" that Sen. Terry Carpenter offered Gov. Exon last spring — that Terry would get out of the governor's hair and never run for public office again if the senator lost his bid for the Democratic lieutenant governor nomination — has been unilaterally abrogated.

Although Carpenter wound up at the top of the bottom of the heap, he was a distant second to winner Jerry Whelan and quickly resigned his 48th District legislative seat and went into the unfamiliar and uncomfortable limbo of political retirement.

Now Terry wants back into the action, which should not surprise Nebraskans, familiar as they should be with the Scottsbluff legend's up and down public career. As has been the case with other notable public figures, Terry, the inveterate politician, will not be bound by hasty statements made in the flush of possible victory or the gloom of defeat.

"I've been urged by a respectable cross-section of voters, including businessmen, farmers and working people, to conduct a write-in campaign," Carpenter said this week. "I'm ready to tell them that if a write-in campaign is successful, I would be more than happy to accept the office."

That he would be more than happy to accept the office and will take more than a casual hand in orchestrating the write-in effort is the closest thing to a cinch bet that one will see.

Terry's interest in renewing a political career at age 74 is not without obstacles. He faces a formidable threat from at least one of the two primary election winners, whose names will be on the ballot and who will not be subject to the chance aspects of asking people to do more than simply mark an "X" on the ballot. And it can be suggested that many of those who honored Terry at his premature retirement may not be persuaded to open the door of the tiger cage one more time.

But if he wins, all those scenarios drawn up relating to a Carpenterless Legislature and the shifting of power and leadership will of course have to be scratched. He will want to get back into it is a big way, as evidenced by his thinking of bidding for the chairmanship of the Appropriations Committee if he regains his seat.

And if it happens, the sparks between the governor's office, no matter who sits there, and the legislative chamber can be expected to fly with renewed intensity. That is not necessarily bad for the state. Nebraskans should not begrudge the man a last hurrah.

Coyotes Or Cultists?

A question relating to the unexplained deaths of a number of cattle is now boggling the minds of authorities and livestock owners in Nebraska and Kansas. Are the weirdly disemboweled carcasses the work of satanist cults, otherworldly beings or nature's predators?

Some of the evidence seems to support the contentions in at least some of the cases that the mutilation is not the result of the eating habits of coyotes or turkey buzzards.

One state official, in the Cattle Brands Division of the secretary of state's office, tends to pooch-pooch any mysterious explanations for the deaths of the cattle. He says they only contribute to alarming farmers and ranchers who are organizing vigilante groups in some parts of the state. But some farmers and law enforcement officials are not certain that the livestock deaths should be attributed only to wild predators.

It shouldn't be impossible for animal pathologists or other experts to determine whether or not predators are to blame and every effort should be extended to get to the bottom of it as quickly as possible.

Meanwhile, that state official, Art Thomsen, raises an important point in stressing the danger of livestock owners organizing armed patrols to deal with the unexplained threat to cattle. "I'm just afraid of what's going to happen to some stranded motorist or somebody flying low in a place or somebody out with somebody else's wife," Thomsen said.

He's right. Farmers and ranchers can't be treating strange cars or passersby as cohorts of the Devil. Somebody might get hurt.

WILLIAM GRANT STILL

They Had A Dream

Conductor Leopold Stokowski introduced "Afro-American Symphony" to the nation on a 1936 tour with the Philadelphia Philharmonic Orchestra.

In 1937, Stokowski led the Philadelphia Philharmonic in the world premiere performance of "New Symphony in G Minor."

Both symphonies were the work of William Grant Still who has composed scores of operas, ballets, tone poems, choral works and symphonies during a career of more than 50 years. His compositions have been played by major orchestras all over the world.

In addition to his impressive classical credits, Still also has made his mark in the world of popular music. As a musician, he played with several big bands during the 1940s, and he arranged for some of the top singers and bands of that era such as Sophie Tucker, Paul Whiteman and Artie Shaw.

One of Shaw's biggest hits, "Frenesi," was arranged by Still, who also arranged the music for several successful Broadway musicals and Earl Carroll's "Vanities."

During his varied career, Still established many firsts for his race:

He was the first Negro to conduct a major studio orchestra in radio's early days — at New York's station WOR.

His "Afro-American Symphony" was the first major symphony for an American black.

He became the first Negro to conduct a major American symphony orchestra when he led the Los Angeles Philharmonic in a program of his compositions at the Hollywood Bowl in 1936.

Born in Woodville, Miss., in 1895, Still grew up and was educated in Little Rock, Ark. He learned violin as a boy but, when he enrolled at Wilberforce University, he set his sights on a career in medicine.

His love of music soon changed that. Abandoning medicine, he studied music theory and composition at Oberlin Conservatory under noted composer Edgar Varese.

One of his earliest jobs was as an arranger and traveling musician with W. C. Handy, "father" of the blues. Though economic necessity often led him into popular music, Still's interests remained in the classical realm. He wrote music for Columbia Broadcasting System, the 1939

New York World's Fair, West Point Military Academy and the Cleveland Symphony.

In 1944, he won the prize offered by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra for the best overture celebrating its jubilee year.

While other men his age were in their rocking chairs, Still was composing. In 1963, at the age of 68, his one-act opera "Highway No. 1, U.S.A." was premiered at the University of Miami's Festival of Music. After that, when he was 75, he wrote "Symphony No. 5, Western World."

New President Wades Right In

NEW YORK — Nobody in the land — Democrat, Republican, Independent, Wallaceite or member of the Vegetarian Party — can accuse President Gerald R. Ford of lacking that rare old quality named guts.

—He made his pitch for compassion and leniency for 50,000 war resisters right into the teeth of the most concentrated core of anti-amnesty proponents, the annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

—He chose Nelson Rockefeller as the vice president he wants at his side in the remaining years of this term, to the dismay of some and indignation of others in the GOP.

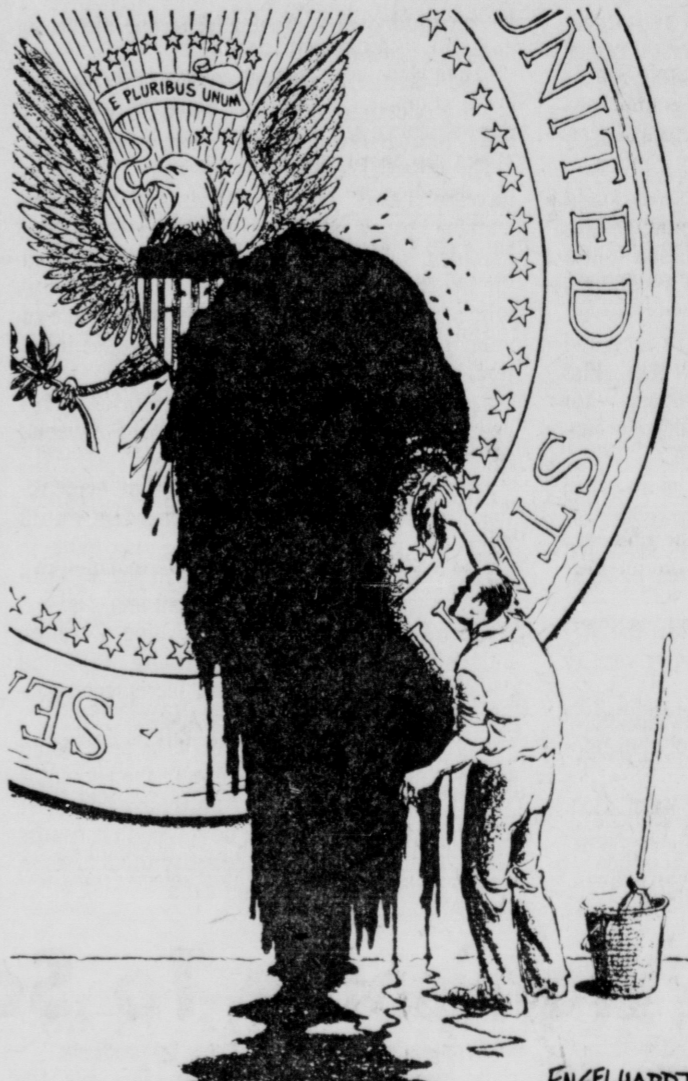

A president can choose his audiences as easily as he can choose the necktie he wants to wear to the office. No other arm of government can veto that presidential whim or decision. Had Ford wished to state that it's high time the nation took another look at the position, imprisonment and self-imposed exile of the men who ducked the war in Vietnam, he could easily have arranged to make known his feelings at a convention of, say, the Americans for Democratic Action, the NAACP, or on any campus in the U.S. The televised applause, thundering, would have impressed millions of Americans who have mixed emotions about those boys who made the hard decision to sit out a war which a vast majority of the public now agrees was a senseless waste of blood, treasure and prestige.

Instead, Ford took his case to

as tough a jury as he will ever face. The VFW members and their families are justifiably proud of the military records of their men, and mourn those who were shattered or went unquestioning to their graves in Indochina and wars gone by. Those who came to the big hall in Chicago to hear the new President's first formal speech — and felt honored that he had chosen the VFW as his forum — naturally assumed that he would make the routine presidential vet's speech: "I'm witcha. Gov. J. James Exon Friday asked State Sens. John DeCamp and Neligh and Loran Schmit of Bellwood to meet next week with directors of the Pioneer Insurance Co. to discuss their concerns about its operation.

DeCamp and Schmit had urged the governor to investigate State Insurance Director James Jackson's actions in taking over operation of the financially beleaguered company in behalf of the state last year.

"The Nebraska Insurance Department, under Director James Jackson, has to my knowledge moved aggressively to protect the interests of policyholders in every instance," Exon wrote the senators.

First Time In Years

"... for the first time in years, the Pioneer Insurance Co. made a substantial profit in the first half of the current fiscal year under the leadership of the insurance director and the newly appointed board of directors.

"From the information available to me," the governor said, "I have felt that the policyholders were being served by the directors and the board by their constructive actions."

The senators, in a letter to Exon Thursday, had questioned whether the present operation of the company was "exposing Pioneer policyholders to unwarranted additional losses" and whether the state itself might be liable for such losses.

Unknown Liabilities

Exon said "any possible unknown liabilities of the company" which the senators may be aware of should be "made available to the director and the board as soon as possible."

Therefore, he said, he hopes both senators will meet next week with Jackson, Pioneer President Fred Gottschalk and five members of the board of directors.

Directors include Frank Starr, president of the Omaha National Bank; Paul Amen, chairman of the National Bank of Commerce in Lincoln; John O'Neill, president and chairman of the board of Lincoln Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Frank Barrett, general counsel for the Central National Insurance Co., and Dean Sack, president and chairman of the board of the York State Bank.

Exon said copies of his letter were mailed to State Auditor Ray Johnson and Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer.

Will Set Up Team

"If, after your meeting next week with the director and the board, further investigation is deemed necessary, I will ask the state auditor and the attorney general to serve as two members of that investigatory team," the governor told the senators.

A third member of such a team would be a qualified insurance investigator selected by the other two members, he said.

Strict Budgeting Planned By Tech College Board

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The State Board of Technical Community Colleges will take a "hard line" in reviewing budget proposals by the six community college areas, board chairman Arlo Wirth said Friday.

Wirth, of Hartington, said the board will "analyze in detail every budget item requested" by each system, totaling almost $30 million.

The board expects to have its recommendations in shape by Sept. 13 for submission to the State Department of Administrative Services. The Legislature will take final action on all appropriations.

The board the last two days has completed a first review of each college area's budget requests for 1975-76, which includes all equipment, capital outlay, operations and maintenance items.

The Southeast Community College, with campuses in Lincoln, Fairbury and Milford, has requested $6.9 million. State Board Executive Director Dr. Robert C. Schlegel said Friday appropriations requests from the other areas range from $4 million to $7 million.

The state board, after final review by each area college board, will take final action on all the budget requests at its next meeting Sept. 12.

Western State Gets High Wind, Severe Storms

Western Nebraska caught some severe weather late Thursday.

Chadron recorded wind gusts up to 72 miles per hour, with hail covering the ground in the Crawford area.

In northern Kimball County, 2.00 inches of rain fell, while Lewellen and Hemingford received one inch. Other moisture included Alliance .76 of an inch, Sidney .71, Chadron .46 and Mullen .05.

Oelrichs, S.D., just north of the Nebraska border, was drenched with four inches of rain.

Pleasant weather is due across Nebraska Saturday and Sunday with highs in the 80's and lows down to the 50's and 60's. There's a chance of thundershowers in the east Saturday night.

In taking the hard-line stand on funding recommendations, Wirth said, "We feel a special responsibility this year, for three good, hard reasons."

Because the drought "will undoubtedly lower the potential supply of tax money available," he said, "we have to be sure that every tax dollar we ask for is badly needed and absolutely necessary to the effective operation of the system."

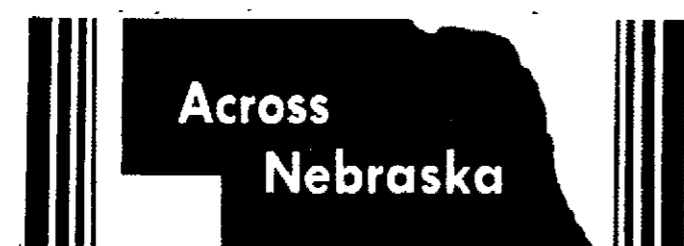

Secondly, he said, early enrollment figures indicate "many young people who might have been going to four-year schools are going to be coming to the community college" because of lower costs there, and the "need to earn a salary as early as possible."

Finally, he explained, limited budgets since the beginning of the system July 1, 1973, have forced use of equipment "longer than we should" and replacements are "badly needed."

While pledging to control "as much as possible" outlays for new equipment, Wirth said, "We can't compromise the quality of education."

He added that the board is determined to do all it can to keep the cost of tuition and fees down to the current level.

Log House Going Up At Falls City

Falls City — Logs from Montana are being used for the construction of a new log house east of Falls City. Mr. and Mrs. Jay Cromer, who are building the two-bedroom, said they got the idea for building their house out of logs when they lived in Montana, where some residents who own land cut their own logs and build their own homes. The Cromers will use the logs as the home's interior walls and for beams and rafters.

Over $1,000 Worth Of Hay Stolen

Plattsmouth (UPI) — A rural Murray farmer has reported the theft of 600 bales of hay valued at more than $1,000. Earl Mrasek said the hay was stolen sometime last week from his farm southeast of Murray. Mrasek told Cass County officers he was uncertain when the theft occurred.

Petitions Seek Courthouse Change

Gering (AP) — A presentation has been made to move the Scotts Bluff County seat from Gering to Scottsbluff. Heirs of George Baltes presented a copy of a petition they said was circulating to call a referendum on the site of the county seat. The county was offered 15 acres in northern Scottsbluff for $75,000 adjacent to 15 acres the county owns. For the last three years, the county board has been studying the possibility of extending the courthouse in Gering or building a new facility in that area. A one-block section north of the courthouse has been offered for $110,000 by the Gering Development Foundation.

Regular Gas Price Goes Down

Omaha (AP) — The Cornhusker Motor Club says the average price of regular gasoline in Nebraska has dropped to 56 cents per gallon. The club reported following its weekly survey that premium prices also were down to an average of 60 cents a gallon, a half-cent per gallon drop. The survey also uncovered the lowest gasoline price since late June at a Hastings station offering regular for 47.9 cents. Lincoln residents continue to have the best gas bargains. The survey of 15 Lincoln stations showed regular averaging 53.8, 2.2 cents under the state average.

Islander Keeps Traditions

Grand Island (AP) — Jim Hopkins, a Grand Island resident, is keeping alive the ancient trade of wheelwrighting and wagon building.

He has rebuilt several wagons from scrap and returned them to their sparkling original condition, taking six months to a year to rebuild each one.

"The tank wagon (with Standard Oil label) was just a junk wagon when I got it," Hopkins said. "I went to a gas station and got a picture of one of the old tank wagons and copied it exactly."

The accessories are as unusual as the wagons themselves. Hopkins said he found the barrels on his brewery wagon in Trinidad, Colo., where they once had been used by the nowdefunct Snider brewery.

"Henry Baasch, who is dead now, and I started building wagons 25 years ago," Hopkins said. "He taught me how to make the wheels."

He said building wheels is a two or three-man job, taking about two days from start to finish. It takes an hour and a half to set the tires, Hopkins said, heating the iron over a coal-fired forge.

Hopkins also maintains horses to draw the wagons. He said he would have to buy bigger horses to pull the beer wagon because of its weight.

In addition to the vehicles, Hopkins also has a two-seat sleigh and a buggy he says was built in pre-Civil War days.

Hopkins is a chef at the Ramada Inn.

Carstens For Lower Interest, Against Increasing Usury Rate

State Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice Friday said interest rates need to be lowered, not increased.

If the Legislature increased the 9% usury rate, he warned, it would increase interest rates for all borrowers, not merely for those who cannot secure home loans at current rates.

Carstens is chairman of the Legislature's Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee.

Carstens took note of suggestions that the 9% rate be hiked to 12% although, he said, no member of a lending institution has contacted him proposing such action.

Would Affect All
"It is never mentioned that an increase in the rates for home loans from 9% to 12% would no doubt make money available for home loans, but it would immediately affect every borrower in the State of Nebraska who is now borrowing money at the 9% rate," Carstens said.

"These rates would probably go up to the higher rate — whether home loans or other personal loans.

"It would mean that every farmer and feeder now caught in a bad situation would have to increase his interest payments on feed loans and loans necessary to keep him in business."

What borrowers need, not only in Nebraska but throughout the nation, is "not higher interest, but lower interest," Carstens said.

"The cost of borrowing money is so high now that the repayment rate on home loans is rapidly going beyond the reach and limit of what borrowers can repay."

National Problem
That, he said, is a national problem and "something has to be done to get the interest rates brought down."

If there is a demand for increasing the usury rate, Carstens said, he is prepared to schedule a public hearing on the issue before his committee next month.

But there is little change of raising the rate beyond 10%, he predicted.

'Negligence' Seen In Women's Deaths

Dawson (UPI) — Two persons were dead and two hospitalized Friday in the aftermath of a two-car crash at an intersection authorities labeled "hazardous."

Richardson County Sheriff Blackie Camblin said he didn't know why the state hadn't complied with his request to place a blinking flasher at the crossing.

Dr. A. P. Stappenbeck, Humboldt, an attending physician, called the omission "negligence. It's horrible. Too many people have been killed there."

Struck Broadside
Two Humboldt women, Cetha F. Dorland, 77 and Ruby H. Reid, 88, were killed when the car driven by Mrs. Dorland was struck broadside by a car driven by William Lantoff, 54. Broken Arrow, Okla.

Camblin said the Dorland car was eastbound on Neb. 8 when it either went through the stop sign at the intersection of the highway and U.S. 75 or failed to yield the right of way to the northbound Lantoff car on U.S. 75.

"There weren't any witnesses who saw it right away," Camblin said. "She was in his lane when the two cars collided."

Camblin said Mrs. Dorland was the only one involved in the mishap to be thrown from the two cars upon impact.

Dead On Arrival
The two women were taken to the Humboldt hospital where they were pronounced dead on arrival by Stappenbeck. Lantoff and his wife, Mary, 51, the passenger in his car, were taken to a Falls City hospital.

Camblin said Mrs. Lantoff suffered bruises and a "bad fracture in one leg." She was to be transferred to a Lincoln hospital, while her husband suffered several broken ribs, cuts and bruises.

Labor Board Sets Back W-H Hearing

Omaha (AP) — A National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) hearing on unfair labor practice charges brought against The Omaha World-Herald by the International Typographical Union Local 190 Thursday was adjourned until Oct. 1.

Administrative Law Judge Paul E. Weil called for the delay after NLRB General Counsel Ronald Brown asked to broaden the complaint.

The printers union has been on strike against the newspaper since May 4, 1973. It has alleged that the company failed to bargain collectively on preparation of copy for electronic character recognition machines (scanners) and unilaterally paid bonuses to non strikers.

Brown proposed broadening the complaint to allege the company "failed to bargain on various matters not limited to preparation of scanner copy."

Naked Omahan Dies In Mishap

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Fred M. Jackson, 46, of Omaha, Neb., was killed Friday when struck by a truck on U.S. 82, police said.

El Dorado police said the accident occurred when Jackson was running east on the highway.

Deputy Coroner Mike Dumas of Union County said Jackson was naked when a transport truck driven by Marshall D. Wolfe of Paris, Tex., struck him.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"
Psalm 2:1 and Acts 4:25

In the 2nd Psalm God tells us the Heathen are "people who imagine a vain thing, kings and rulers who set themselves to break The Bands and cast away The Cords" of restraint of God's Laws and Commandments. In Acts 4:25 the disciples of Jesus Christ, God in the flesh, lifted up their voices in prayer to God, acknowledging the fulfillment of the prophecy of the 2nd Psalm in their own observation and experience as they had witnessed the death of Christ at the hands of the religious and secular leaders and rulers who were now threatening them.

Persecutions among the heathen were supported under the pretense that Christians brought in new gods. The persecutions under the Roman Catholics were under the pretext of the Protestants introducing heresies into the Church.

However, does any know of an instance, among mankind, of rulers persecuting "RELIGION ITSELF"? Well, we submit that the "powers that be" in this great land are doing that very thing today! The ruling and edicts of our Supreme Court is openly and avowedly against: "PRAYER." THE GREATEST KEY TO EVERY BLESSING—that is, in so far as our children and young people in the public schools! Surely the Almighty did not speak in vain when He said a number of times in His Word of supposedly His people: "WORSE THAN THE HEATHEN!"

We certainly should not put all the blame on the Supreme Court! Look to yourselves, as well as the President, the Senators, the Congressmen, the Judges, etc., great numbers of whom either support the High Court, or, are more or less indifferent to the whole matter! Is not the great power of the Army, Air Force, Navy, F.B.I., etc., standing by, if needed, to fight to enforce the decrees to prevent prayer in our public schools: "PRAYER." THE GREATEST KEY TO EVERY BLESSING! Are not the high and mighty offices and pulpits of the clergy, the great doctors and scholars of the great seats of learning, largely filled with such as are in accord with the persecution of religion itself: "PRAYER ITSELF." THE GREATEST KEY TO EVERY BLESSING!

When I dare the title of the first chapter of Mr. John Stormer's book, "None Dare Call It Treason", "Have we gone crazy," the answer that came immediately to my mind was: "No doubt of it!"

The heathen had a reason for persecuting. The Catholics had a reason for their persecutions. We asked if any knew of an instance, among mankind, of rulers persecuting religion itself: "Prayer," the greatest key to every blessing! Maybe we also have a "first" or a "second" at "think they say—in another matter. Does any know of any civilized or enlightened people of history that allowed her citizens to go about in public in near nakedness? Has not that always been reserved for the pagans, savages, and heathen people who sexually live more or less as dogs and the beasts that perish? But let us talk of a remedy. The Scriptures in Luke 8:27, etc., tells us: "When Jesus went forth to land, there met Him out of the city a certain man, WHICH HAD DEVILS LONG TIME, AND WORE NO CLOTHES. . . ." Read on and you will find that after Jesus treated him and the folks of the city came out to see what was done: "They found the man, out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at the feet of Jesus. 'CLOTHED' and in his right mind: and they were afraid." However, the change was not without cost, somebody lost some hogs in getting rid of the devils, and they did not want to pay the cost. They preferred to have a man walking about naked and full of devils than suffer the loss of some hogs. They asked Jesus to leave! Ruskus said the trouble with most of us is: "WE CANNOT SEE IN A PLAIN WAY!"

A certain historian says that after the fall of the western part of the Roman Empire, for generation after generation there was murder, rape, pillage, fire, etc., and one thing, and only one thing, kept Europe from returning to the days of the savage and hyena: and that was the humble followers of Jesus Christ. The proud, the presumptuous, the lecherous, the covetous, the hypocrites, the heretics, the apostates and their knif-knif have got our nation and generation on the toboggan slide headed towards the dogs and hyenas.

It is time for the humble followers of Jesus Christ to get busy and bring our "naked" day and generation to Him who is able to cast out legions of devils and cause her to get in her right mind, put on "clothes" and sit at His feet. An approximate quote of Martin Luther: "PRAYER IS THE ONLY OMNIPOTENT EMPRESS OF HUMAN AFFAIRS. BY HER WE CAN CHANGE ALL THINGS AND OVERCOME ALL EVILS. MEND THAT WHICH MIGHT BE REPAIRED AND RECLAIMED, AND TAKE AWAY THAT WHICH IS TOO EVIL, AND BAD TO MEND." It has been said that John Knox prayed Mary, Queen of Scots, off the Throne of Scotland, and may be to her death at the hands of Queen Elizabeth!

(It may be, for the benefit of some of our modern college students, and maybe doctors and professors, too, it should be pointed out that this was not the present reigning Queen Elizabeth, no indeed, but the great queen who reigned several hundred years ago. Am prompted to make this explanation in view of the meager intelligence some of them manifest in view of their conduct in many schools and universities all over the nation. Also, judging from several letters I have had from some of these "brilliant," the way they handled the subject matter under discussion, it is surprising they are not still "walking on all-fours".)

Her World Is Comprised Of Hammers And Nails

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

"If I were a carpenter and you were a lady . . ."
So goes the popular song.

But Cynthia Slade has thrown a wrench — or a hammer, if you please — into the gist of the song.

She is both a carpenter (apprentice-style) and a woman.

Having helped a co-worker measure and mark a slab of lumber, she stood up and adjusted her hip-hugging tool belt weighed down by a variety of carpenter's instruments.

"I like to work outside and with my hands," she said, clomping toward the construction trailer. Neither her heavy-soled work shoes nor the tool belt slowed her quick, determined pace.

Inside the trailer, she sat amid memos and intricate blueprints. She removed her hardhat; her long, blonde hair — matted by the protective headgear — was caught at the nape of the neck.

Explaining her entry into the world of hammers and nails, Miss Slade said, "I figured the union couldn't turn me down like everyone else in town."

After months of uncertainty and waiting — the tests had been taken, the interviews held, the apprenticeship applied for — she now is an official hardhat, a bona fide apprentice carpenter registered with the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, U.S. Department of Labor.

Miss Slade is the first female carpenter apprentice in Lincoln, and is but one of 13 women currently in apprenticeships in Nebraska, according to a spokesperson of the Bureau's Omaha office. The dozen others are printers-compositors.

"To me, this job is just a job," Miss Slade said, undaunted by the brouhaha surrounding her new-found career.

"Because I just happen to do a job most usually held by men, especially in Nebraska, I don't think it's an unusual phenomenon," she said, extracting a crush-proof pack of Marlboros from her hip pocket.

And her apprenticeship, is not the end of the road. Miss Slade has a dream.

"I want to learn how to build houses," she said.

"That's the place I most likely won't be able to get a job. People don't want women working for them just yet."

However, she has had at least some experience in house construction.

'It's hard to be a woman without being too girlish, and to be a woman without being too masculine, when everybody is pushing you one way or another.'

In the two and one-half years since arriving in Lincoln ("It's as good a place as any"), she has worked as a housepainter and a cement truck driver — "I was the first girl there, too."

Settling once for an inside job, she sorted bottles at a soft drink plant.

It was last winter that she applied with the Lincoln Carpenters Local Union 1055 — and she now is the only woman of the 58 apprentices currently participating in the union's four-year program, according to Loren Wieden, assistant business agent for the union.

Miss Slade feels she received equitable treatment by the union. "I didn't see it was any different to them," she said.

Wieden said she has promise. "I thought she would make it if she had enough moxie to drive a truck and do other jobs."

When Kingery Construction called the union for carpenters, "We just sent her out," Wieden said. "We tell our people not to treat Cynthia any different from anybody else."

Miss Slade, however, wasn't ecstatic about her reception once she arrived on the job.

"They made me feel like a poacher," she said, forcing a half-smile.

She has been at the opposite end of jokes at the job site. "I don't think any of the hassling I've ever gotten on jobs is good natured . . . it's rather condescending," she said.

"That kind of stuff makes it hard for me to keep going."

"It's hard to be a woman without being too girlish, and to be a woman without being too masculine when everybody is pushing you one way or another," she added.

But, because she is doing just what she wants to do Miss Slade is "halfway willing to take the consequences."

And the fact that more and more women are also entering traditional male strongholds, "makes me feel a little bit better. At least I know I'm not alone."

Despite the kidding, good natured or not, Miss Slade sees one advantage to her physically taxing work.

"I get a good work out every day," she said. "I won't ever have to go on a diet or run around the block every day."

Admitting she isn't "as strong as everybody around here," Miss Slade says she may have the last laugh on her fellow workers.

The men's "tool belts keep slipping. They are always pulling and tugging at them. Mine stays right on my hips," she grinned.

Women Face Obstacles In Skilled Jobs

By LISA HAMMEL

New York — A government agency recently published a routine monograph that might have gone unnoticed among the glut of reports and handouts, except for one thing.

In dealing with how the apprenticeship system works in Wisconsin — the pioneer state in apprentice programs in the nation — the study pinpointed many obstacles that women face generally in trying to win equality in the job market.

The reasoning behind initiating the study was that women in lower economic strata may find themselves obliged to work for at least 20 years and, for lack of education, are forever left behind in the vast pool of the unskilled and underpaid.

One way out is to become an apprentice in a skilled trade. But in 1970, when the three-year study began, there were 280,000 men in this country, in 350 recognized trades or crafts, climbing the ladder to better jobs through the apprenticeship system.

At the same time, there were slightly under 1,200 women and a very considerable number in hairdressing.

There were two initiators of the study, which was funded by the Manpower Administration of the United States Department of Labor. One was Dr. Kathryn Clarenbach, professor of political science and head of the Women's Education Resources Office at the University of Wisconsin Extension Division. The other was Charles Nye, administrator of the Wisconsin Division of Apprenticeship and Training.

When it came the turn of union members to be questioned, Norma Briggs, project coordinator, said, it became clear that "the typical union member's firm belief in equal work for equal pay and equality of opportunity was severely modified by his belief that men were the breadwinners, the serious workers, who should therefore get the opportunities when there were not enough to go around."

A survey also was made of employers with 78 businesses in the Fox River Valley area in east-central Wisconsin — chosen because both large and small companies in a variety of trades there made great use of the apprenticeship system.

But none of the 78 businesses had women as apprentices. A majority of employers explained that women could not be considered because of the harsh conditions under which many would have to work. It therefore came as something of a surprise to the employers to learn that women were already working under all of these "unsuitable" conditions in Fox River Valley — but on an unskilled level, without either the pay or opportunities the male apprentices had.

The survey also uncovered the fact that many plants posted information about apprentice openings in areas in the plant women did not frequent. In one case, the information was posted in the men's washroom.

Age was another factor working against the women, it was discovered. Women generally did not apply until after they had married and had their families, but most of the apprentices accepted by these plants were males between the ages of 18 and 24.

Mrs. Briggs also pointed out that most government employees administering job training and placement programs were "completely unfamiliar" with government laws mandating affirmative action programs.

You're Not Her Keeper

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: Talk about a situation which is incredibly unbelievable — but true — the one in my own family takes the prize.

I have a 36-year-old sister who is unmarried and pregnant. She is attractive and self-supporting, and believe it or not, she is a practicing physician!

The problem is, she refuses to marry the baby's father. She says she knows who he is but she doesn't want to get married. She could have had an abortion with no trouble at all, but she didn't want one. Have you ever heard of anything so crazy in all your life?

No friend or relative can convince her that she is wrong. We were all so proud of her, and now she is about to disgrace the whole family.

She respects your advice, Abby. Can you help us convince this foolish, bull-headed woman that she should get married?

OLD-FASHIONED SISTER

her prerogative to decide what is best for HER. A person can disgrace only him (or herself). You are not your sister's keeper.

DEAR ABBY: A reader signed "Angry" asks: "Do I have a right to complain?"

Her question caused me to recall what the late William Ernest Hocking wrote in his Types of Philosophy:

"Anyone can complain, but to see precisely what is wrong is a gift; accurate diagnosis comes from a unique power of vision and indicates the likelihood of an equally unique capacity to remedy the fault."

Abby, you have both!

ARTHUR H. PRINCE

DEAR MR. PRINCE: I liked the quote, but jeppers, what an extravagant compliment! Isn't there enough inflation in the world without adding another swelled head?

Her World Is Comprised Of Hammers And Nails

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

"If I were a carpenter and you were a lady . . ."
So goes the popular song.

But Cynthia Slade has thrown a wrench — or a hammer, if you please — into the gist of the song.

She is both a carpenter (apprentice-style) and a woman.

Having helped a co-worker measure and mark a slab of lumber, she stood up and adjusted her hip-hugging tool belt weighed down by a variety of carpenter's instruments.

"I like to work outside and with my hands," she said, clomping toward the construction trailer. Neither her heavy-soled work shoes nor the tool belt slowed her quick, determined pace.

Inside the trailer, she sat amid memos and intricate blueprints. She removed her hardhat; her long, blonde hair — matted by the protective headgear — was caught at the nape of the neck.

Explaining her entry into the world of hammers and nails, Miss Slade said, "I figured the union couldn't turn me down like everyone else in town."

After months of uncertainty and waiting — the tests had been taken, the interviews held, the apprenticeship applied for — she now is an official hardhat, a bona fide apprentice carpenter registered with the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, U.S. Department of Labor.

Miss Slade is the first female carpenter apprentice in Lincoln, and is but one of 13 women currently in apprenticeships in Nebraska, according to a spokesperson of the Bureau's Omaha office. The dozen others are printers-compositors.

"To me, this job is just a job," Miss Slade said, undaunted by the brouhaha surrounding her new-found career.

"Because I just happen to do a job most usually held by men, especially in Nebraska, I don't think it's an unusual phenomenon," she said, extracting a crush-proof pack of Marlboros from her hip pocket.

And her apprenticeship, is not the end of the road. Miss Slade has a dream.

"I want to learn how to build houses," she said.

"That's the place I most likely won't be able to get a job. People don't want women working for them just yet."

However, she has had at least some experience in house construction.

"It's hard to be a woman without being too girlish, and to be a woman without being too masculine, when everybody is pushing you one way or another."

As a youngster in New York City, she and her father built a play house. "I slept in it, too. It was as good a house as any around here . . . just miniature," she said, steel blue eyes twinkling at the memory.

According to Miss Slade, who spent 18 of her 20 years in the eastern city, her family "expects the unusual" of her. She has a sister attending Smith College and another is enrolled in graduate courses in psychology.

Not necessarily a renegade, the apprentice carpenter simply has an affinity for being confined — "I just don't know if I could enjoy a job where I had to be inside," she said, waving a half-smoked cigaret in the air.

In the two and one-half years since arriving in Lincoln ("It's as good a place as any"), she has worked as a housepainter and a cement truck driver — "I was the first girl there, too."

Settling once for an inside job, she sorted bottles at a soft drink plant.

It was last winter that she applied with the Lincoln Carpenters Local Union 1055 — and she now is the only woman of the 58 apprentices currently participating in the union's four-year program, according to Loren Wieden, assistant business agent for the union.

Miss Slade feels she received equitable treatment by the union. "I didn't see it was any different to them," she said.

Wieden said she has promise. "I thought she would make it if she had enough moxie to drive a truck and do other jobs."

When Kingery Construction called the union for carpenters, "We just sent her out," Wieden said. "We tell our people not to treat Cynthia any different from anybody else."

Miss Slade, however, wasn't ecstatic about her reception once she arrived on the job.

"They made me feel like a poacher," she said, forcing a half-smile.

She has been at the opposite end of jokes at the job site. "I don't think any of the hassling I've ever gotten on jobs is good natured . . . it's rather condescending," she said.

"That kind of stuff makes it hard for me to keep going."

"It's hard to be a woman without being too girlish, and to be a woman without being too masculine when everybody is pushing you one way or another," she added.

But, because she is doing just what she wants to do Miss Slade is "halfway willing to take the consequences."

And the fact that more and more women are also entering traditional male strongholds, "makes me feel a little bit better. At least I know I'm not alone."

Despite the kidding, good natured or not, Miss Slade sees one advantage to her physically taxing work.

"I get a good work out every day," she said. "I won't ever have to go on a diet or run around the block every day."

Admitting she isn't "as strong as everybody around here," Miss Slade says she may have the last laugh on her fellow workers.

Women Face Obstacles In Skilled Jobs

By LISA HAMMEL

New York — A government agency recently published a routine monograph that might have gone unnoticed among the glut of reports and handouts, except for one thing.

In dealing with how the apprenticeship system works in Wisconsin — the pioneer state in apprentice programs in the nation — the study pinpointed many obstacles that women face generally in trying to win equality in the job market.

The reasoning behind initiating the study was that women in lower economic strata may find themselves obliged to work for at least 20 years and, for lack of education, are forever left behind in the vast pool of the unskilled and underpaid.

One way out is to become an apprentice in a skilled trade. But in 1970, when the three-year study began, there were 280,000 men in this country, in 350 recognized trades or crafts, climbing the ladder to better jobs through the apprenticeship system.

At the same time, there were slightly under 1,200 women and a very considerable number in hairdressing.

There were two initiators of the study, which was funded by the Manpower Administration of the United States Department of Labor. One was Dr. Kathryn Clarenbach, professor of political science and head of the Women's Education Resources Office at the University of Wisconsin Extension Division. The other was Charles Nye, administrator of the Wisconsin Division of Apprenticeship and Training.

When it came the turn of union members to be questioned, Norma Briggs, project coordinator, said, it became clear that "the typical union member's firm belief in equal work for equal pay and equality of opportunity was severely modified by his belief that men were the breadwinners, the serious workers, who should therefore get the opportunities when there were not enough to go around."

A survey also was made of employers with 78 businesses in the Fox River Valley area in east-central Wisconsin — chosen because both large and small companies in a variety of trades there made great use of the apprenticeship system.

But none of the 78 businesses had women as apprentices. A majority of employers explained that women could not be considered because of the harsh conditions under which many would have to work. It therefore came as something of a surprise to the employers to learn that women were already working under all of these "unsuitable" conditions in Fox River Valley — but on an unskilled level, without either the pay or opportunities the male apprentices had.

The survey also uncovered the fact that many plants posted information about apprentice openings in areas in the plant women did not frequent. In one case, the information was posted in the men's washroom.

Age was another factor working against the women, it was discovered. Women generally did not apply until after they had married and had their families, but most of the apprentices accepted by these plants were males between the ages of 18 and 24.

Mrs. Briggs also pointed out that most government employees administering job training and placement programs were "completely unfamiliar" with government laws mandating affirmative action programs.

her prerogative to decide what is best for HER. A person can disgrace only him (or her)self. You are not your sister's keeper.

DEAR ABBY: A reader signed "Angry" asks: "Do I have a right to complain?"

Her question caused me to recall what the late William Ernest Hocking wrote in his Types of Philosophy:

"Anyone can complain, but to see precisely what is wrong is a gift; accurate diagnosis comes from a unique power of vision and indicates the likelihood of an equally unique capacity to remedy the fault."

Abby, you have both!

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆
Forecast For Saturday
 Look Alikes — like their sings: Clark Gable and Burt Reynolds. Aquarius don't know about the late Gable, but Reynolds is knowledgeable about astrology and friendly to the subject. That's true of most typical Aquarians. The sign is associated with the planet Uranus and that planet is related to astrology. Aquarius today who knows his sign: Hank Aaron. Yesterday it was Gertrude Stein. Today — Forrest Tucker. Yesterday — Bishop James Pike. The list is long and fascinating. More of this later, but for now also include Lorne Greene and Jeanne Moreau.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Far-ranging view is featured. You perceive future trends, potential. Travel is indicated and so is ability to communicate thoughts, feelings. Map campaign of public relations. Become aware of need to have more persons understand your aspirations.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): New approach to life ready. Inventories, savings, interest rates and payments may be necessary. Be aware of commitments made by partner, male. Leo, Aquarius individuals could be in picture. Insist on needed information.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Go slow. Be sure of position, facts. Usain cooperation of one close to you. Teach and learn — share knowledge. Pool resources. Aquarius, Leo persons could figure prominently in contacts.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Break free from unreasonable restrictions. Express yourself — be yourself, not an imitation or robot. You have right to expect good service — and respect. Know it and act like you are aware of it. Get money's worth!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Good lunar aspect coincides now with creativity, love, children and basic changes. Aquarius, Scorpio and another Leo figure prominently. You will be happier but a relationship requires review. You could be failing prey to false flattery. Straighten up and grow up!
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Improve communications with family. Begin building on a more solid structure. Someone is trying to tell you something of significance. Be analytical. Check sources. Completion of project sees you reaping benefits of research.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accent is on family visit, short trips, ideas which need time to age. Diplomacy is your ally. Soft sell brings desired results. Another Libran — and a Taurus — could be in picture. Telephone call sparks chain of action.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Money, debts, payments, reality of costs — these are emphasized. You learn truth about telephone pay, about what is profit and what is puff. Pisces, Virgo persons play significant roles. Avoid tendency to see only what you wish could be.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Lunar cycle high — get going, take initiative. Trust judgment, intuition. You have a real reason to be optimistic. Underrate your potential. But now you can show them via surprise action. Go to it. Don't be fooled, lulled by "paper tigers."
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What occurs behind the scenes becomes more important to you than in recent past. Key is to know when a relationship is finished. Don't hang on to bitter end. You have right to live your own life. Now you begin to see the light!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your morale goes up — some of your desires are fulfilled. You receive meaningful compliments. Accent is on creativity, inventions. You express and hear higher funge. Some people do have your best interests at heart — and now you learn about it. Aquarian could be working behind the scenes to see that you get square deal.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You receive aid to climbing higher rungs. Some people do have your best interests at heart — and now you learn about it. Aquarian could be working behind the scenes to see that you get square deal.
IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY the voice is important — teaching, singing, being associated with radio, television or motion pictures. You put across ideas and develop concepts. September will be your most important month of 1974. Taurus, Libra persons are drawn to you. You are persuasive, somewhat of a schemer and intriguing to opposite sex. If single, marriage may be upcoming. Financial picture brightens as you accept additional responsibility.

Sand and Sea

Lauging children splash and splutter in the shallows. Farther out, big boys race and tear in noisy games of tag. Fathers show their children how to swim, while mothers smile encouragement. Lovers nestle close on striped blankets, and grandmas nod sleepily under big-brimmed hats. The day is good, a day of sand and sea and clear blue sky.

Then a whistle shrieks, and laughter stills as life guards work to save a life. Dread hovers, and even when the child is safe within his mother's arms, for some the day is tarnished.

It's easy to be gay on picnic days. But, when tragedy comes close and fears clamor, life's happiness is a temporary thing. Where can you find confidence?

Your church has the answer. It is the abiding place of God. Within its fellowship through prayer and worship, you can learn that God is the center of your life and that His goodness never wavers.

Roads Dept. Reports Bids In State's Largest Letting

By The Associated Press

Apparent low bidders on more than $19.6 million on highway construction and improvement projects were announced Friday by the Nebraska Department of Roads. It was the largest single bid letting in the department's history, according to State Engineer Thomas Doyle.

The biggest single project was $2.7 million for a 10-mile project on U.S. Highway 385 south of Dunlap in Box Butte and Dawes County, the department said.

Missouri Valley Construction Co. of Grand Island was the apparent low bidder on the entire project which includes grading, detour, culverts, bridges and asphaltic concrete surface course.

Only two projects in Lancaster County were up for bids, O.K. Electric Co., Inc. of Omaha was the low bidder on both jobs with bids of $151,116.39 for traffic signals on 40th St. and $61,203.25 for street lighting and traffic signals at 33rd St. and Cornhusker Hwy.

The total low bids were $300,000 lower than the advance estimate of costs.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

Forecast For Saturday

Look Alikes — like their sings: Clark Gable and Burt Reynolds. Aquarius, I don't know about the late Gable, but Reynolds is knowledgeable about astrology and friendly to the subject. That's true of most typical Aquarians. The sign is associated with the planet Uranus and that planet is related to astrology. Aquarian today who knows his sign: Hank Aaron. Yesterday it was Gertrude Stein. Today — Forrest Tucker. Yesterday — Bishop James Pike. The list is long and fascinating. More of this later, but for now also include Lorne Greene and Jeanne Moreau.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Far-ranging view is featured. You perceive future trends, potential. Travel is indicated and so is ability to communicate thoughts, feelings. Map campaign of public relations, advertising. Become aware of need to have more persons understand your aspirations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): New approach to tax records, inventories, savings, interest rates and payments may be necessary. Be aware of commitments made by partner, mate. Leo, Aquarius individuals could be in picture. Insist on needed information.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Go slow. Be sure of position, facts. Gain co-operation of one close to you. Teach and learn — share knowledge. Pool resources. Aquarius, Leo persons could figure prominently. Contracts, partnerships, serious relationships command more attention than usual.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Break free from unreasonable restrictions. Express yourself — be yourself, not an imitation or robot. You have right to expect good service — and respect. Know it and act like you are aware of it. Get money's worth.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Good lunar aspect coincides now with creativity, love, children and basic changes. Aquarius, Scorpio and another Leo figure prominently. You will be happier but a relationship requires review. You could be falling prey to false flattery. Straighten up and grow up!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Improve communications with family. Begin building on a more solid structure. Someone is trying to tell you something of significance. Be analytical. Check sources. Completion of project sees you reaping benefits of research.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accent is on family visit, short trips, ideas which need time to age. Diplomacy is your ally. Soft-shell brings desired results. Another Libran — and a Taurus — could be in picture. Telephone call sparks chain of action.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Money, debts, payments, reality of costs — these are emphasized. You learn truth about take-home pay, about what is profit and what is puff. Pisces, Virgo persons play significant roles. Avoid tendency to see only what you wish could be.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Lunar cycle high — get going, take initiative. Trust judgment, intuition. You have needed resources. Others tend to underestimate your potential. But now you can show them via surprise action. Go to it. Don't be fooled, lulled by "paper tigers."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What occurs behind the scenes becomes more important to you than in recent past. Key is to know when a relationship is finished. Don't hang on to bitter end. You have right to live your own life. Now you begin to see the light!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your mind goes up — some, you, desires are fulfilled. You receive meaningful compliments. Accent is on creativity, innovations. You express and share more of your own voice. Your style comes closer to perfection. You articulate wishes.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You receive aid to climbing higher rungs. Some people do have your best interests at heart — and now you learn about it. Aquarian could be working behind the scenes to see that you get square deal.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY the voice is important — teaching, singing, being associated with radio, television or motion pictures. You put across ideas and develop concepts. September will be your most important month of 1974. Taurus, Libra persons are drawn to you. You are persuasive, somewhat of a schemer and intriguing to opposite sex. If single, marriage may be upcoming. Financial picture brightens as you accept additional responsibility.

Laughing children splash and splutter in the shallows. Farther out, big boys race and tear in noisy games of tag. Fathers show their children how to swim, while mothers smile encouragement. Lovers nestle close on striped blankets, and grandmas nod sleepily under big-brimmed hats. The day is good, a day of sand and sea and clear blue sky.

Then a whistle shrieks, and laughter stills as life guards work to save a life. Dread hovers, and even when the child is safe within his mother's arms, for some the day is tarnished.

It's easy to be gay on picnic days. But, when tragedy comes close and fears clamor, life's happiness is a temporary thing. Where can you find confidence?

Your church has the answer. It is the abiding place of God. Within its fellowship through prayer and worship, you can learn that God is the center of your life and that His goodness never wavers.

Meet Star Carrier Timothy Isaacs

Excellent service and a winning smile have made Timothy Isaacs one of the most popular businessmen in Walton.

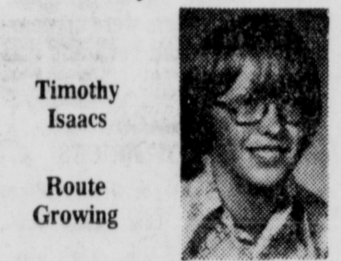

A carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star for more than two years, Tim is pleased to have a chance to earn money and feels that the route has helped him organize his time more efficiently. Tim saves part of the profits from his growing business and has invested some of it in a 10-speed bicycle and a set of golf clubs.

A student at Waverly Junior High School, Tim is currently attending bible school at the Rosemont Alliance Church.

An active participant in a wide variety of sports, Tim plays second base for the Walton Mets, swims, golfs and fishes. He also plays basketball, football and participates in track.

Undecided about long-range career plans, Timothy does have an immediate ambition — he'd like to see Worlds of Fun at Kansas City.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Isaacs, feel that having a paper route has taught their son how to handle money and responsibility and are emphatic in recommending this type of business venture for all youths.

School Board Approves $84 Million Budget Jump

By The Associated Press
The State Board of Education Friday approved a budget request of more than $189 million for 1975-76, an increase of more than $84 million over the budget current year.

Most of the increase reflects mandated hikes in state aid to education, called for in LB772, the state aid to education bill approved by the 1974 legislature over the veto of Gov. J. James Exon.

The board recommended $126,662,855 in state aid, compared with the 1974-75 figure of $55,473,259.

Also included is about $9 million more for special education, and a $3.5 million increase in federal school lunch aid, making that total $9.8 million.

Both the increase for the lunch program and special education were called were required by legislation.

The recommended funds for special education total $18,540,540, compared with $9,458,529.

Stressing the department's budget increases are minimal, except for state-aid hikes over which they have no control, board members cautioned there would be a financial crisis in Nebraska schools if LB772 is not implemented in 1975.

"We have two big 'ifs' in front of us," said Board Chairman Marilyn Fowler of Lexington: not knowing if 772 will fail at the polls, or if a court suit to keep the issue of the November ballot will succeed.

She said rejection of LB772 would put the state

10 years behind, and leave it with $55 million or less provided by existing legislation.

Mrs. Fowler and other board members spent much of the budget debate criticizing news reports which gave tentative budget figures in advance of the meeting.

Such information should not have been released in advance, Mrs. Fowler said.

The 1975-76 aid figure assumes $71 million in new aid under LB772, on top of the present $55 million.

Added to the budget total for 1975-76 is some $950,000 more in federally-funded "flow-through" money for the disadvantaged, and other titles of the recently-synthesized extension of Elementary-Secondary Education Act, and $60,000 more in federal adult education funds.

"I think we should take a stand," said board member Frank Knappe of Omaha, that LB772 must pass.

"It should be made clear that we're in kind of a bind," said Hastings board member Mrs. Dorothy Creigh.

State aid under LB772 ultimately will exceed $155 million by the 1976-77 fiscal year.

The budget recommendation also included staff salary increases of about 12%.

The board also approved the lifting of Nebraska teaching certificates of Cynthia McNally, Louisville Public Schools, and Janet Kimball, Millard Schools, for alleged failure to honor their contracts.

Metal Firm May Pay Debts

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha company that buys and sells metals on the international market has proposed a plan to pay creditors that will not involve selling the firm as officials earlier thought necessary.

Aaron Ferer & Sons Co. filed a bankruptcy petition in U.S. District Court in April that allows a business to operate while working out a plan to pay debts.

In May, President Harvey Ferer said he thought the company probably would have to be sold to raise sufficient money.

The company currently owes U.S. National Bank in Omaha $2 million and the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York $3.35 million.

When the bankruptcy petition was filed, Ferer owed the two banks a total of $9.4 million. The total has been reduced by making payments with proceeds from completed metal transactions.

If the bill is fully funded, Lincoln could receive an anticipated $499,000 during the first year of the program, according to the mayor's office.

But no definite figures are yet available for Lincoln's share of the pot.

Omaha To Receive $25 Million Grant

Omaha (AP) — Omaha will receive $24,959,000 from the community development bill signed into law by President Ford Thursday.

The money, spread over the next six years, is about $6.7 million more than the city had expected.

Mayor Edward Zorinsky said Rep. J. John Y. McCollister informed him of the city's grant.

The new law will allow cities to spend the money as they see

Sheriff, Warden Named In Suit Filed By Inmate

Omaha (AP) — A Nebraska Penal Complex inmate has filed a handwritten damage suit in U.S. District Court here against Douglas County Sheriff Ted Janing and Charles Terry, warden of the Douglas County Jail.

Vastine Leon Erving, 20, is asking $200,000 for an alleged abuses inflicted by the two defendants.

The suit claims that Janing cursed Erving and hit Erving in the chest, after the plaintiff had been accused of beating a jail guard Feb. 9.

The action also says Janing, with a blackjack in one hand, a gun in the other, threatened Erving, and that Terry also threatened the plaintiff.

Erving also claims that he was placed in solitary confinement with unsanitary conditions for five days.

Erving and six others were charged with assault and attempted escape in connection with the guard beating.

The guard, Jasper Clark, was injured in the incident, and required hospitalization.

Deaf School Opening Set In Panhandle

Scottsbluff (UPI) — A western Nebraska satellite to the State School for the Deaf in Omaha is scheduled to open Sept. 16 at the University of Nebraska Panhandle Station.

George Hoyle, program director, said the satellite will serve kindergarten through 3rd grade students, who after completing the courses, may transfer to the Omaha facility.

The Panhandle course will teach communications skills such as speech and language development along with academics such as social studies, math and science.

Hoyle said attempts were underway to locate foster homes for children who live far away from the campus but want to enroll in the program.

The panhandle station is on the old Hiram Scott College campus.

UNCF Starts Scholarship Fund

Omaha (AP) — Nebraskans will soon be benefitting directly from a $5,000 scholarship fund established by the United Negro College Fund (UNCF).

The fund will provide financial aid to Nebraska residents attending 41 private, predominantly black colleges which are supported by UNCF, according to campaign chairman Harold W. Andersen, president of the Omaha World-Herald.

The fund is being financed through contributions by Nebraska businesses, individuals and foundations.

Eligibility for the scholarship fund will be open to Nebraskans who are currently enrolled in UNCF schools, and to residents who apply for admission for the 1974-75 school year.

The fund will be administered by the UNCF national office.

Markets... Business

Stocks Dive; Dow Average Below 700

New York (AP) — The stock market completed its second week in a row of punishing declines Friday, with a sharp afternoon selloff that drove the closing Dow Jones industrial average below 700 for the first time in more than four years.

The widely watched average of 30 blue-chip issues, which had struggled to a slight gain by noon, collapsed to a 17.83 loss, finishing at 686.80 — its lowest close since July 8, 1970.

It was the Dow's largest loss in nearly seven weeks, since it fell 21.20 July 8 of this year.

Another prominent market barometer — the New York Stock Exchange composite index of all its listed common stocks — reached an even more gloomy milestone.

While the Dow was still well above its closing low of 631.16 in the 1969-70 bear market, the NYSE composite's drop of .65 to 37.55 carried it to a new low since its inauguration in its present form in 1963.

The composite's previous record low had been 37.69 on May 26, 1970.

Analysts noted that Friday's losses, like those of the past several days, have focused more on a general and pervasive gloom over economic prospects than on any individual news events.

Monte Gordon at Dreyfus Corp. pointed to "pessimism over unremitting inflation and high-interest rates, with no break in sight at the moment."

"Obviously there was also disappointment that the market didn't hold at the 700 level in the Dow. A lot of technicians have just thrown up their hands."

On Thursday, the Dow had dipped briefly below 700, then quickly rebounded.

In its second pass at that level, on Friday, however, the average plunged through it without a hint of hesitation.

Losers outnumbered gainers 1,012 to 351 among the 1,748 issues traded on the Big Board.

NYSE volume was a moderate 13.59 million shares.

The heaviest downward pressure again showed up in the big-name growth and blue-chip issues which one Wall Streeter found himself describing Friday as "the former glimmers."

In the blue chip category, Du Pont tumbled 7.4 to 119.4, for example; General Electric was down 3 1/4 to 35 1/4; and Eastman Kodak lost 4 to 75.

Among glimmers, IBM was down 2 1/4 to 240; Johnson & Johnson, off 2 1/2 to 81 1/2; Walt Disney, 1 1/4 to 32 1/2; and Digital Equipment, 1 1/4 to 77 1/2.

Holly Sugar, which raised its dividend, resisted the market trend to climb 1 1/4 to 24 1/4.

Cabot, Cabot & Forbes fell 1 1/2 to 5. The real estate investment trust issued an earnings projection of 50 cents a share for the current quarter, compared with 62 cents a year ago, saying it wanted to dispel rumors of heavy investment losses.

Trading in its shares had been halted since Aug. 16.

Evans Products was the most-active Big Board stock, down 1/4 at 3 1/2. A 135,000-share block traded at 3 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, the volume leader was International Banknote, the producer of stock certificates and similar items, unchanged at 7-16.

The Amex market-value index fell .64 to 71.68.

School Board Approves $84 Million Budget Jump

By The Associated Press
The State Board of Education Friday approved a budget request of more than $189 million for 1975-76, an increase of more than $84 million over the budget current year.

Most of the increase reflects mandated hikes in state aid to education, called for in LB772, the 1974 legislature over the veto of Gov. J. James Exon.

The board recommended $126,662,855 in state aid, compared with the 1974-75 figure of $55,473,259.

Also included is about $9 million more for special education, and a $3.5 million increase in federal school lunch aid, making that total $9.8 million.

Both the increase for the lunch program and special education were called were required by legislation.

The recommended funds for special education total $18,540,540, compared with $9,458,529.

Stressing the department's budget increases are minimal, except for state-aid hikes over which they have no control, board members cautioned there would be a financial crisis in Nebraska schools if LB772 is not implemented in 1975.

"We have two big 'ifs' in front of us," said Board Chairman Marilyn Fowler of Lexington: not knowing if 772 will fail at the polls, or if a court suit to keep the issue of the November ballot will succeed.

She said rejection of LB772 would put the state

10 years behind, and leave it with $55 million or less provided by existing legislation.

Mrs. Fowler and other board members spent much of the budget debate criticizing news reports which gave tentative budget figures in advance of the meeting.

Such information should not have been released in advance, Mrs. Fowler said.

The 1975-76 aid figure assumes $71 million in new aid under LB772, on top of the present $55 million.

Added to the budget total for 1975-76 is some $950,000 more in federally-funded "flow-through" money for the disadvantaged, and other titles of the recently signed extension of Elementary-Secondary Education Act, and $60,000 more in federal adult education funds.

"I think we should take a stand," said board member Frank Knapp of Omaha, that LB772 must pass.

"It should be made clear that we're in kind of a bind," said Hastings board member Mrs. Dorothy Creigh.

State aid under LB772 ultimately will exceed $155 million by the 1976-77 fiscal year.

The budget recommendation also included staff salary increases of about 12%.

The board also approved the lifting of Nebraska teaching certificates of Cynthia McNally, Louisville Public Schools, and Janet Kimball, Millard Schools, for alleged failure to honor their contracts.

Stocks Dive; Dow Average Below 700

New York (AP) — The stock market completed its second week in a row of punishing declines Friday, with a sharp afternoon selloff that drove the closing Dow Jones industrial average below 700 for the first time in more than four years.

The widely watched average of 30 blue-chip issues, which had struggled to a slight gain by noon, collapsed to a 17.83 loss, finishing at 686.80 — its lowest close since July 8, 1970.

It was the Dow's largest loss in nearly seven weeks, since it fell 21.20 July 8 of this year.

Another prominent market barometer — the New York Stock Exchange composite index of all its listed common stocks — reached an even more gloomy milestone.

While the Dow was still well above its closing low of 631.16 in the 1969-70 bear market, the NYSE composite's drop of .65 to 37.55 carried it to a new low since its inauguration in its present form in 1965.

The composite's previous record low had been 37.69 on May 26, 1970.

Analysts noted that Friday's losses, like those of the past several days, have focused more on a general and pervasive gloom over economic prospects than on any individual news events.

Monte Gordon at Dreyfus Corp. pointed to "pessimism over unremitting inflation and high interest rates, with no break in sight at the moment."

"Obviously there was also disappointment that the market didn't hold at the 700 level in the Dow. A lot of technicians have just thrown up their hands."

On Thursday, the Dow had dipped briefly below 700, then quickly rebounded.

In its second pass at that level, on Friday, however, the average plunged through it without a hint of hesitation.

Losers outnumbered gainers 1,012 to 351 among the 1,748 issues traded on the Big Board. NYSE volume was a moderate 13.59 million shares.

The heaviest downward pressure again showed up in the big-name growth and blue-chip issues which one Wall Street trader found himself describing Friday as "the former glimmers."

In the blue chip category, Du Pont tumbled 7 3/4 to 119 3/4, for example; General Electric was down 3 3/4 to 35 3/4; and Eastman Kodak lost 4 to 75.

Among glimmers, IBM was down 2 1/4 at 190; Johnson & Johnson, off 2 1/4 at 81 3/4; Walt Disney, 1 1/4 at 32 1/4; and Digital Equipment, 1 3/4 at 77 1/4.

Holly Sugar, which raised its dividend, resisted the market trend to climb 1 3/4 to 24 3/4. Cabot, Cabot & Forbes fell 1 1/2 to 5. The real estate investment trust issued an earnings projection of 50 cents a share for the current quarter, compared with 62 cents a year ago, saying it wanted to dispel rumors of heavy investment losses.

Trading in its shares had been halted since Aug. 16.

Evans Products was the most-active Big Board stock, down 1 1/2 at 3 3/4. A 135,000-share block traded at 3 3/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the volume leader was International Banknote, the producer of stock certificates and similar items, unchanged at 7-16.

The Amex market-value index fell .64 to 71.68.

Nastase Survives Holecek Challenge

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Third-seeded Romanian bad boy Ilie Nastase, fighting for survival in the $100,000 U.S. Professional Tennis Championships at Longwood Cricket Club, roared back after a two-and-a-half hour rain delay Friday to oust upset-minded Czech Milan Holecek, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

The lanky 6-foot-3 Czech, who pulled a major upset Thursday by beating highly regarded, 12th-seeded Harold Solomon, had broken Nastase's serve and was leading 3-2 in the third and deciding set when time was called.

When play resumed, however, Nastase held his serve at love and broke Holecek's service with a wicked forehand passing shot to take a 4-3 lead.

They exchanged service breaks, then Nastase advanced to the quarterfinals with a blistering serving game.

Before the rain delay, the match was interrupted three times while Nastase got into heated arguments with the umpire and Holecek, angered by it, twice stomped off the court.

The Nastase-Holecek confrontation which, with the rain delay, lasted almost all afternoon, with its overtones of psychology on both sides, was not the only extraordinary event.

Seventh-seeded Spaniard Manuel Orantes defaulted to Egypt's Ismail El Shafei, walking off the court early in the first set following a misunderstanding with tournament officials.

Okker bounced Puerto Rican Charles Pasarelli, 7-6, 6-3. Ashe had little trouble with 10th-seeded Eddie Dibbs of Miami Beach, Fla., 6-4, 6-3. Vilas eliminated Barry Phillips-Moore of Australia, 6-4, 6-2. Riessen whipped Aussie Geoff Masters, 6-4, 6-4.

Joys Garner Championship

Jane Sommerhalder pitched the Lincoln Joys to the girl's junior high city championship by pitching four victories for the Joys including a 10-7 decision over Nitz Dairy Queen of Beatrice Friday night.

Janice Ridenberg, Ruth Fen and Barb Jones all collected two or more hits for the Joys which finished its season at 24-6.

Humm, Ruud Chosen Captains

By VIRGIL PARKER

Seniors Dave Humm and Tom Ruud were elected co-captains of the 1974 Husker football team Friday by a team vote.

Humm, a quarterback, is from Las Vegas, Nev., and Ruud, a linebacker is from Bloomington, Minn.

The University of Nebraska football team will wind up its two-a-day pre-season drills with a Saturday afternoon scrimmage at Memorial Stadium which will be closed to the public.

"We're adding a few new formations and doing some things differently," head coach Tom Osborne explains. "In the best interest of our program we want to know who is watching."

Osborne said the first part of the Saturday scrimmage "will be run to a script. By that I mean we (the coaches) will predetermine mine the play — from which offensive formation it will be run and against what defense."

Some plays will be called from a formation and against a defense which should assure a long gain. Others will be stacked in favor of the defense.

"We'll know in advance what ought to happen," Osborne adds,

Tom Ruud

Dave Humm
Offensive Captain

"and thus we should be able to evaluate the performance of various individuals a lot better."

The first offense will go against the second defense, then the two top units will reverse. After the two third units take a turn, they'll come back for a second go-around without the script.

Red Sox Top A's; Reds Slam Expos

By The Associated Press

Luis Tiant became the major league's first 20-game winner this season when he pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 3-0 victory over the Oakland A's Friday night.

Tiant, who has lost eight, hurled his sixth shutout of the season while scattering six hits and striking out six.

Boston quickly jumped ahead on its way to its sixth victory in seven games when Tommy Harper homered in the first inning off Oakland starter Vida Blue.

In other American League action, the Baltimore Orioles scored a 4-1 decision over the Minnesota Twins, the Texas Rangers beat the Detroit Tigers 5-2, the New York Yankees defeated the California Angels 10-4, and the Chicago White Sox downed the Cleveland Indians 2-1.

In the National League, the Houston Astros trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 1-0, the Cincinnati Reds beat the Montreal Expos 10-7, and Atlanta swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets 4-3 and 6-0.

In NL games on the West Coast, Pittsburgh was at San Diego, St. Louis was at Los Angeles and Chicago was at San Francisco.

In another doubleheader, Kansas City defeated Milwaukee 8-4 in the first game.

Roy White homered, drove in four runs and scored twice after being put in the Yankee starting lineup before the game to replace an ailing Lou Piniella.

Designated hitter Ron Santo singled home one run and scored another to help Chicago send Cleveland down to its 10th loss in 14 games. Jim Kaat pitched a seven hitter as the White Sox halted a five-game losing streak.

Earl William's three-run homer capped a four-run rally which was all Baltimore needed to back pitcher Dave McNally's six-hit effort.

Steve Hargan pitched a four-hitter for Texas and was supported by a four-run uprising in the third inning off Detroit's Joe Coleman. The Rangers added a run in the fifth to put the game away.

Roger Metzger doubled and scored on Bob Watson's two-out single in the sixth inning to provide the margin of victory for veteran Larry Dierker who fired a three-hitter.

Dierker, 8-8, outdueled Philadelphia starter Dick Ruthven, 6-10, who gave up three hits in the seven innings he worked.

Johnny Bench drove in four runs with a homer and single as the Reds scored six runs in the fifth inning to overtake the Expos. In the sixth, Pete Rose reached first on a catcher's interference, triggering a rally which netted Cincinnati three more runs.

Atlanta scored a 10th inning victory in the first game when Mike Lum punched a two-out single to drive home Marty Perez. Lew Krausse allowed one hit in six innings and drove in two runs with a homer for Atlanta.

Steve Busby scored his 19th victory for Kansas City in the first game of its doubleheader with Milwaukee after doubles by Cookie Rojas and Vada Pinson sparked a four-run secondinning rally.

NFL 'War' Resumes Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negotiations between National Football League owners and players will resume on Monday in Chicago, it was announced Friday by federal mediator W.J. Usery, Jr.

The talks will resume 34 hours before a two week "cooling off" period ends, with no indication what action the players will take if no contract agreement is reached.

Usery, national director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said the talks would be held at 2 p.m. at the Regency Hyatt House in Chicago.

Usery said he had notified Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, and John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council requesting them to be present with their full negotiating committees.

"Each of you should come prepared to make every good faith effort to consummate an agreement," Usery said in telegrams to both sides.

Usery will be accompanied by James F. Seacrest, deputy director of the mediation service, and commissioner Louis W. Sabatino.

The players agreed Aug. 11 to the "cooling off period" after a six-week strike and went to their training camps. The "cooling off period" ends at midnight on Tuesday.

Douglass Claims Westchester Lead

Harrison, N.Y. (UPI) — Dale Douglass birdied the last three holes in the twilight Friday night to shoot a six-under-par 66 and take a one-stroke lead after the second round of the Westchester Classic.

Douglass, one of the last starters on a gloomy and overcast day where play was delayed more than two and a half hours by rain, had a 36-hole total of 133, 11 under-par.

That put him a stroke ahead of Larry Ziegler, one of three players who shared the first round lead with Douglass. Ziegler, who played early, had his second straight 67.

Don Bies, a non-winning veteran tour regular, had the day's best round, a 65, and was alone in third place at 135.

There was a three-way tie at 136 among Tom Weiskopf and Bruce Crampton, both looking for their first victories of disap-

"Then we'll turn the offense loose and see if they can move the ball," Osborne says.

The coaches have thoroughly studied the films of Thursday's initial contact session, taking particular note of the middle guards and right tackles on defense, Osborne reports.

"Ron Pruitt is pretty well established at one tackle," he admits, "but we have four others (Stan Waldemore, Mike Fultz, George Mills and Dean Gissler) who are very close. At middle guard John Lee and Willie Thornton both did some good things. We're hoping to resolve that situation soon."

After an off day Sunday, the Cornhuskers will go to a single drill each day when school opens Monday.

Cyclones Select Trickey

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Ken Trickey, who turned Oral Roberts into a basketball power in five years, was named head basketball coach Friday at Iowa State.

"This is the best opportunity I have ever had in athletics," said the 40-year-old Trickey. "I've always wanted to coach in a prestigious, old school—like Iowa State."

Trickey was given a three-year contract at a salary believed to be about $24,000 a year to succeed Maury John, who resigned June 30 due to failing health. He has inoperable cancer.

"I feel that I've come to a program that is up," said Trickey. "From that standpoint, this is an easy job to come to. Maury John has got this program moving."

Trickey announced that the two current Iowa State assistants—Gus Guydon and Tom Smith—will remain on his staff.

"I have known both men for quite some time and know them to be extremely capable coaches," he said. "They will be a big asset to our program and give us continuity as we enter the year."

A nine-year college coaching veteran, Trickey compiled a 118-23 record in five years at Oral Roberts in Tulsa, Okla., and guided the Titans to postseason tournaments the last three years.

He had announced in January he would leave "to seek a new challenge." In May, he joined the staff of Colorado State University as an assistant coach.

"Potentially I think the material here is very good," said Trickey about Iowa State. "And the facilities are excellent."

He said he might have become the victim of a distorted reputation during his coaching time at Oral Roberts.

"I'm a basketball coach, not just an offensive coach," he offered. "We ran and shot a lot at ORU and people got the impression that we didn't play defense."

"But that's not true. We played an exciting game—and won. Here it may be different. I'll let the type of players I have dictate what kind of game we play."

Trickey posted records of 274, 21-5, 28-2, 21-6 and 23-6 at Oral Roberts after working at his alma mater, Middle Tennessee State.

His Oral Roberts teams set five NCAA records, including most points per game averaged in a season—105.1 in 1971-72.

His 1971-72 and 1972-73 teams played in the National Invitation Tournament. The Titans finished second in the NCAA Midwest Regional last year.

Trickey was the center of a minor controversy after Oral Roberts upset Louisville in the first round of the Midwest Regional in March.

He was charged with driving while intoxicated, and the next day suspended himself. He was later reinstated and coached the Titans in the regional final—a 93-90 overtime loss to Kansas.

Mutual Wins

Lutheran Mutual used heavy hitting to down previously unbeaten Central Telephone Utilities, 8-6, 12-5 to win the Lincoln AAA Slow Pitch championships at Elks Field Friday night.

Trailing by four runs going into the seventh inning Lutheran Mutual rallied to tie the game and then went ahead to win when David Jefferson drove in two runs with a line drive single.

Ed Hieden hit two homers and Gene Carstens added another to give pitcher Dennis Johnson his second win of the evening.

Dolphin-Ram Tilt

By Associated Press

The fourth round of National Football League exhibition games this weekend will feature the return of more veterans, three nationally televised games and a matchup of the Miami Dolphins and Los Angeles Rams.

The games will be the second set played during the 14-day "cooling off" period in the players' strike. The period,

Tops NFL Action

games will be Buffalo at Minnesota Sunday night and Detroit at Cincinnati Monday night.

NBC will handle the Los Angeles game, CBS the Minnesota game and ABC the Cincinnati game. Coverage of each is scheduled to start at 9 p.m., EDT.

The weekend's action kicked off Friday night with the New York Jets playing at St. Louis.

In other Saturday night games, the New York Giants are at Pittsburgh; Philadelphia is at Oakland; Denver is at Green Bay; Dallas is at New Orleans; New England is at San Diego; Washington is at Cleveland and San Francisco is at Kansas City.

There also will be two other Monday night games—Chicago at Baltimore and Atlanta at Houston.

"Miami may be the best team of all time," said Rams coach Chuck Knox. Each team is 2-1 in exhibition play.

The Dolphins feature the same cast that has led them to two straight Super Bowl victories—running backs Larry Csonka, Mercury Morris and Jim Kiick; wide receiver Paul Warfield; quarterback Bob Griese and an excellent defense. Quarterback John Hadl keys the Rams and he is expected to see more action than he did in the first three games.

Quarterback Norm Snead is expected to see his first action of the year when the Giants, 2-1, try to stop Pittsburgh, 3-0. Joe Gilliam, has hit on 35 of 55 passes for 646 yards and six touchdowns, and Terry Hanratty are expected to handle the Steelers' quarterbacking as Terry Bradshaw has a sore arm.

Oakland, which has been getting good performances from rookie running back Harold Hart and rookie quarterback Larry Lawrence, also will be trying to win its fourth straight, while Philadelphia will be trying to snap a three-game losing string.

An all-veteran lineup is scheduled to start for Denver, 2-1, with quarterback Randy Johnson replacing rookie John Huftagel, who had gone all the way in his first three games. Green Bay, 3-0, plans to use Jim Del Gaizo and Jack Concannon at quarterback although Jerry Tagge passed for three touchdowns last weekend.

Nastase Survives Holecek Challenge

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Third-seeded Romanian bad boy Ilie Nastase, fighting for survival in the $100,000 U.S. Professional Tennis Championships at Longwood Cricket Club, roared back after a two-and-a-half hour rain delay Friday to oust upset-minded Czech Milan Holecek, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

The lanky 6-foot-3 Czech, who pulled a major upset Thursday by beating highly regarded, 12th-seeded Harold Solomon, had broken Nastase's serve and was leading 3-2 in the third and deciding set when time was called.

When play resumed, however, Nastase held his serve at love and broke Holecek's service with a wicked forehand passing shot to take a 4-3 lead.

They exchanged service breaks, then Nastase advanced to the quarterfinals with a blistering serving game.

Before the rain delay, the match was interrupted three times while Nastase got into heated arguments with the umpire and Holecek, angered by it, twice stomped off the court.

The Nastase-Holecek confrontation which, with the rain delay, lasted almost all afternoon, with its overtones of psychology on both sides, was not the only extraordinary event.

Seventh-seeded Spaniard Manuel Orantes defaulted to Egypt's Ismail El Shafel, walking off the court early in the first set following a misunderstanding with tournament officials.

Okker bounced Puerto Rican Charles Pasarell, 7-6, 6-3. Ashe had little trouble with 10thseeded Eddie Dibbs of Miami Beach, Fla., 6-4, 6-3. Vilas eliminated Barry Phillips-Moore of Australia, 6-4, 6-2. Riessen whipped Aussie Geoff Masters, 6-4, 6-4.

Joys Garner Championship

Jane Sommerhalder pitched the Lincoln Joys to the girl's junior high city championship by pitching four victories for the Joys including a 10-7 decision over Nitz Dairy Queen of Beatrice Friday night.

Janice Ridenberg, Ruth Fen and Barb Jones all collected two or more hits for the Joys which finished its season at 24-6.

Humm, Ruud Chosen Captains

By VIRGIL PARKER

Seniors Dave Humm and Tom Ruud were elected co-captains of the 1974 Husker football team Friday by a team vote.

Humm, a quarterback, is from Las Vegas, Nev., and Ruud, a linebacker is from Bloomington, Minn.

The University of Nebraska football team will wind up its two-a-day pre-season drills with a Saturday afternoon scrimmage at Memorial Stadium which will be closed to the public.

"We're adding a few new formations and doing some things differently," head coach Tom Osborne explains. "In the best interest of our program we want to know who is watching."

Osborne said the first part of the Saturday scrimmage "will be run to a script. By that I mean we (the coaches) will predeter-mine the play — from which offensive formation it will be run and against what defense."

Some plays will be called from a formation and against a defense which should assure a long gain. Others will be stacked in favor of the defense.

"We'll know in advance what ought to happen," Osborne adds,

Tom Ruud

Dave Humm

"and thus we should be able to evaluate the performance of various individuals a lot better."

The first offense will go against the second defense, then the two top units will reverse. After the two third units take a turn, they'll come back for a second go-around without the script.

Red Sox Top A's; Reds Slam Expos

By The Associated Press

Luis Tiant became the major league's first 20-game winner this season when he pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 3-0 victory over the Oakland A's Friday night.

Tiant, who has lost eight, hurled his sixth shutout of the season while scattering six hits and striking out six.

Boston quickly jumped ahead on its way to its sixth victory in seven games when Tommy Harper homered in the first inning off Oakland starter Vida Blue.

In other American League action, the Baltimore Orioles scored a 4-1 decision over the Minnesota Twins, the Texas Rangers beat the Detroit Tigers 5-2, the New York Yankees defeated the California Angels 10-4, and the Chicago White Sox downed the Cleveland Indians 2-1.

In the National League, the Houston Astros trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 1-0, the Cincinnati Reds beat the Montreal Expos 10-7, and Atlanta swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets 4-3 and 6-0.

In NL games on the West Coast, Pittsburgh was at San Diego, St. Louis was at Los Angeles and Chicago was at San Francisco.

In another doubleheader, Kansas City defeated Milwaukee 8-4 in the first game.

Roy White homered, drove in four runs and scored twice after being put in the Yankee starting lineup before the game to replace an ailing Lou Piniella.

Designated hitter Ron Santo singled home one run and scored another to help Chicago send Cleveland down to its 10th loss in 14 games. Jim Kaat pitched a seven hitter as the White Sox halted a five-game losing streak.

Earl William's three-run homer capped a four-run rally which was all Baltimore needed to back pitcher Dave McNally's six-hit effort.

Steve Hargan pitched a four-hitter for Texas and was supported by a four-run uprising in the third inning off Detroit's Joe Coleman. The Rangers added a run in the fifth to put the game away.

Roger Metzger doubled and scored on Bob Watson's two-out single in the sixth inning to provide the margin of victory for veteran Larry Dierker who fired a three-hitter.

Dierker, 8-8, outdueled Philadelphia starter Dick Ruthven, 6-10, who gave up three hits in the seven innings he worked.

Johnny Bench drove in four runs with a homer and single as the Reds scored six runs in the fifth inning to overtake the Expos. In the sixth, Pete Rose reached first on a catcher's interference, triggering a rally which netted Cincinnati three more runs.

Atlanta scored a 10th inning victory in the first game when Mike Lum punched a two-out single to drive home Marty Perez. Lew Krausse allowed one hit in six innings and drove in two runs with a homer for Atlanta.

Steve Busby scored his 19th victory for Kansas City in the first game of its doubleheader with Milwaukee after doubles by Cookie Rojas and Vada Pinson sparked a four-run secondinning rally.

NFL 'War' Resumes Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negotiations between National Football League owners and players will resume on Monday in Chicago, it was announced Friday by federal mediator W.J. Usery, Jr.

The talks will resume 34 hours before a two week "cooling off" period ends, with no indication what action the players will take if no contract agreement is reached.

Usery, national director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said the talks would be held at 2 p.m. at the Regency Hyatt House in Chicago.

Usery said he had notified Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, and John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council requesting them to be present with their full negotiating committees.

"Each of you should come prepared to make every good faith effort to consummate an agreement," Usery said in telegrams to both sides.

Usery will be accompanied by James F. Seacore, deputy director of the mediation service, and commissioner Louis W. Sabatino.

The players agreed Aug. 11 to the "cooling off period" after a six-week strike and went to their training camps. The "cooling off period" ends at midnight on Tuesday.

Douglass Claims Westchester Lead

Harrison, N.Y. (UPI) — Dale Douglass birdied the last three holes in the twilight Friday night to shoot a six-under par 66 and take a one-stroke lead after the second round of the Westchester Classic.

Douglass, one of the last starters on a gloomy and overcast day where play was delayed more than two and a half hours by rain, had a 36-hole total of 133, 11 under-par.

That put him a stroke ahead of Larry Ziegler, one of three players who shared the first round lead with Douglass. Ziegler, who played early, had his second straight 67.

Don Bies, a non-winning veteran tour regular, had the day's best round, a 65, and was alone in third place at 135.

There was a three-way tie at 136 among Tom Weiskopf and Bruce Crampton, both looking for their first victories of disap-

"Then we'll turn the offense loose and see if they can move the ball," Osborne says.

The coaches have thoroughly studied the films of Thursday's initial contact session, taking particular note of the middle guards and right tackles on defense, Osborne reports.

"Ron Pruitt is pretty well established at one tackle," he admits, "but we have four others (Stan Waldemore, Mike Fultz, George Mills and Dean Gissler) who are very close. At middle guard John Lee and Willie Thornton both did some good things. We're hoping to resolve that situation soon."

After an off day Sunday, the Cornhuskers will go to a single drill each day when school opens Monday.

Cyclones Select Trickey

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Ken Trickey, who turned Oral Roberts into a basketball power in five years, was named head basketball coach Friday at Iowa State.

"This is the best opportunity I have ever had in athletics," said the 40-year-old Trickey. "I've always wanted to coach in a prestigious, old school— like Iowa State."

Trickey was given a threeyear contract at a salary believed to be about 24,000 a year to succeed Maury John, who resigned June 30 due to failing health. He has inoperable cancer.

"I feel that I've come to a program that is up," said Trickey. "From that standpoint, this is an easy job to come to. Maury John has got this program moving."

Trickey announced that the two current Iowa State assistants—Gus Guydon and Tom Smith—will remain on his staff.

"I have known both men for quite some time and know them to be extremely capable coaches," he said. "They will be a big asset to our program and give us continuity as we enter the year."

A nine-year college coaching veteran, Trickey compiled a 118-23 record in five years at Oral Roberts in Tulsa, Okla., and guided the Titans to postseason tournaments the last three years.

He had announced in January he would leave "to seek a new challenge." In May, he joined the staff of Colorado State University as an assistant coach.

"Potentially I think the material here is very good," said Trickey about Iowa State. "And the facilities are excellent."

He said he might have become the victim of a distorted reputation during his coaching time at Oral Roberts.

"I'm a basketball coach, not just an offensive coach," he offered. "We ran and shot a lot at ORU and people got the impression that we didn't play defense."

"But that's not true. We played an exciting game—and won. Here it may be different. I'll let the type of players I have dictate what kind of game we play."

Trickey posted records of 274, 21-5, 26-2, 21-6 and 23-6 at Oral Roberts after working at his alma mater, Middle Tennessee State.

His Oral Roberts teams set five NCAA records, including most points per game averaged in a season—105.1 in 1971-72.

His 1971-72 and 1972-73 teams played in the National Invitational Tournament. The Titans finished second in the NCAA Midwest Regional last year.

Trickey was the center of a minor controversy after Oral Roberts upset Louisville in the first round of the Midwest Regional in March.

He was charged with driving while intoxicated, and the next day suspended himself. He was later reinstated and coached the Titans in the regional final—a 93-90 overtime loss to Kansas.

Mutual Wins

Lutheran Mutual used heavy hitting to down previously unbeaten Central Telephone Utilities, 8-6, 12-5 to win the Lincoln AAA Slow Pitch championships at Elks Field Friday night.

Trailing by four runs going into the seventh inning Lutheran Mutual rallied to tie the game and then went ahead to win when David Jefferson drove in two runs with a line drive single.

Ed Hieden hit two homers and Gene Carstens added another to give pitcher Dennis Johnson his second win of the evening.

Dolphin-Ram Tilt Tops NFL Action

By Associated Press

The fourth round of National Football League exhibition games this weekend will feature the return of more veterans, three nationally televised games and a matchup of the Miami Dolphins and Los Angeles Rams.

The games will be the second set played during the 14-day "cooling off" period in the players' strike. The period, during which striking veterans reported to training camps, ends Wednesday, and no contract agreement has yet been reached.

Miami and Los Angeles, the two teams tabbed by Nevada oddsmakers as the favorites to reach the Super Bowl, will meet Saturday night in Los Angeles in a national television contest.

The other two nationally-televised games will be Buffalo at Minnesota Sunday night and Detroit at Cincinnati Monday night.

NBC will handle the Los Angeles game, CBS the Minnesota game and ABC the Cincinnati game. Coverage of each is scheduled to start at 9 p.m., EDT.

The weekend's action kicked off Friday night with the New York Jets playing at St. Louis.

In other Saturday night games, the New York Giants are at Pittsburgh; Philadelphia is at Oakland; Denver is at Green Bay; Dallas is at New Orleans; New England is at San Diego; Washington is at Cleveland and San Francisco is at Kansas City.

There also will be two other Monday night games—Chicago at Baltimore and Atlanta at Houston.

"Miami may be the best team of all time," said Rams coach Chuck Knox. Each team is 2-1 in exhibition play.

The Dolphins feature the same cast that has led them to two straight Super Bowl victories—running backs Larry Csonka, Mercury Morris and Jim Kiick; wide receiver Paul Warfield; quarterback Bob Griese and an excellent defense. Quarterback John Hadl keys the Rams and he is expected to see more action than he did in the first three games.

Quarterback Norm Snead is expected to see his first action of the year when the Giants, 21, try to stop Pittsburgh, 3-0. Joe Gilliam, has hit on 35 of 55 passes for 646 yards and six touchdowns, and Terry Hanratty are expected to handle the Steelers' quarterbacking as Terry Bradshaw has a sore arm.

Oakland, which has been getting good performances from rookie running back Harold Hart and rookie quarterback Larry Lawrence, also will be trying to win its fourth straight, while Philadelphia will be trying to snap a three-game losing string.

An all-veteran lineup is scheduled to start for Denver, 2-1, with quarterback Randy Johnson replacing rookie John Huftnagel, who had gone all the way in first three games. Green Bay, 3-0, plans to use Jim Del Gaizo and Jack Concannon at quarterback although Jerry Tagge passed for three touchdowns last weekend.

A Roundup of Sports News

Football

The Baltimore Colts announced that veteran offensive tackle Tom Drougas, who returned to the Baltimore Colts after failing a physical exam with the New Orleans Saints this week, has been traded to the Denver Broncos for an undisclosed draft choice.

Texans' all-America fullback, Roosevelt Leaks, defying the expert opinions of medical men and football coaches, said he would play for the Longhorns this year in spite of major surgery performed during the spring on his left knee.

It was no minor surgery, either. Three of the four ligaments in the knee and the wall of the knee were torn and it was necessary to remove a cartilage in order to perform a transplant on the ligaments.

But Leaks said he would be back. If not in time for the season opener Sept. 11 at Boston College, then at least for the Southwest Conference Opener Sept. 28 at Texas Tech.

The New England Patriots traded veteran defensive tackle Dave Rowe, the biggest player on the squad, to the San Diego Chargers for a fourth round draft choice in 1975.

The Chicago Bears announced the trade of Earl Thomas, who has played both tight end and wide receiver, to the St. Louis Cardinals for two players and an undisclosed future draft choice.

In return, the Bears got running back Cliff McClain, a South Carolina State product who was with the New York Jets until playing out his option there last year, and Wayne Mulligan, a Clemson product who has been the Cards' starting center, playing in 60 games in five seasons.

It was just a matter of time before coach Nick Skorich cut back the number of quarterbacks in the Cleveland Browns training camp to three.

Veteran quarterback Don Horn was the one to go. He was released to the San Diego Chargers on waivers, the 29-year-old Horn came to the Browns in 1973 after two seasons with Denver.

His absence leaves veteran starter Mike Phipps, 26, who will be backed up by Brian Sipe, 25. The No. 3 spot goes to Will Cureton, 23, who quarterbacked the team while the veterans were on strike.

The Buffalo Bills asked waivers on strong safety Cookie Brinkman and free agent defensive back Gary Birch.

A $5 million lawsuit has been filed against a football helmet manufacturer in behalf of permanently paralyzed former Miami Edison High School football player Greg Stead.

Stead suffered a broken neck on the opening kickoff of a game against Norland High School on Sept. 30, 1971 and is paralyzed from the neck down.

The suit was filed against Riddell Inc.

David Reavis, 24, was arrested by federal officials at the Steelers training camp in nearby Latrobe. He was released on $10,000 bond furnished by the team attorney after a preliminary hearing before a federal magistrate here.

Swimming

Ulrike Richter of East Germany smashed her own world record in the final of the 100 meter backstroke for women at the European swimming championships with a time of 1 minute 3.30 seconds.

Later, West Germany's Christel Justen broke the East German monopoly with a world record of 1:12.55 in the final of the 100 meter women's breaststroke.

Baseball

The California Angels named Billy Muffett to succeed Tom Morgan as the American League team's pitching coach.

Morgan resigned Wednesday night when he was told his contract would not be renewed for next season. He had coached Angel hurlers since 1970 after six years as the team's minor league pitching instructor.

Leftsander Ray Bare has been recalled from the St. Louis Cardinals' Tulsa farm club to fill in this weekend for Rich Fokers, who will be fulfilling military obligations.

His name was Alfredo Edmond and in Thursday night's game the stylish minor league baseball ballplayer stole his 60th and 61st bases of the season, each time bouncing up with a grin.

In the sixth inning the 18-year-old Edmond charged in from his outfield position for a pop fly. He lunged for the ball but instead slammed into the outfielding second baseman.

An hour later, Edmond, considered one of the top players in the Pittsburgh Pirates' farm system, was dead.

Hockey

Barry Ashbee, former Philadelphia Flyers all-star defenseman whose career was cut short when he was struck in the eye by a hockey puck, has been named assistant coach with the Stanley Cup champions.

Anatoli Tarasov, the former coach of the Russian national team, became the first man from the Soviet Union inducted into the Hockey Hall of Fame here.

Basketball

The new St. Louis Spirits of American Basketball Association have announced they will try to land National Basketball Association veteran Earl Monroe of the New York Knicks.

The team said it had acquired exclusive negotiating rights to Monroe, and he had expressed an interest in coming to St. Louis when his contract with the Knicks expires at the end of the coming season.

Horse Racing

Holding Pattern, a surprise challenger for honors as 3-year-old of 1974, goes after a third straight state triumph Saturday as the probable 9-5 favorite in the American Derby at Arlington Park.

Holding Pattern will carry top weight of 125 pounds in the field of 13 which will run the mile and a furlong on the grass course. But he drew the inside post position and will be ridden by Bill Gavida.

NU Volleyball Tryouts Set

University of Nebraska women's volleyball coach Pat Sullivan announces that a week of tryouts for this year's team will be held the week of Sept. 3.

The NU team, which compiled an 18-3 record last fall, has 19 regular season games scheduled. Tryouts will be held at 4:30 each afternoon in room 313 in the NU women's PE building.

No. Platte Tabs Stevenson

Northeastern Nebraska Technical Community College announces the appointment of Chuck Stevenson as the new Head Basketball Coach. Stevenson replaces Jim Seward who resigned to take a similar position at Wayne State.

Stevenson had coached for nine years, eight as a prep coach in Nebraska.

Morning Briefing

Football

The Baltimore Colts announced that veteran offensive tackle Tom Drougas, who returned to the Baltimore Colts after failing a physical exam with the New Orleans Saints this week, has been traded to the Denver Broncos for an undisclosed draft choice.

Texas' all-America fullback, Roosevelt Leaks, defying the expert opinions of medical men and football coaches, said he would play for the Longhorns this year in spite of major surgery performed during the spring on his left knee.

It was no minor surgery, either. Three of the four ligaments in the knee and the wall of the knee were torn and it was necessary to remove a cartilage in order to perform a transplant on the ligaments.

But Leaks said he would be back. If not in time for the season opener Sept. 11 at Boston College, then at least for the Southwest Conference Opener Sept. 28 at Texas Tech.

The New England Patriots traded veteran defensive tackle Dave Rowe, the biggest player on the squad, to the San Diego Chargers for a fourth round draft choice in 1975.

The Chicago Bears announced the trade of Earl Thomas, who has played both tight end and wide receiver, to the St. Louis Cardinals for two players and an undisclosed future draft choice.

In return, the Bears got running back Cliff McClain, a South Carolina State product who was with the New York Jets until playing out his option there last year, and Wayne Mulligan, a Clemson product who has been the Cards' starting center, playing in 60 games in five seasons.

It was just a matter of time before coach Nick Skorich cut back the number of quarterbacks in the Cleveland Browns training camp to three.

Veteran quarterback Don Horn was the one to go. He was released to the San Diego Chargers on waivers, the 29-year-old Horn came to the Browns in 1973 after two seasons with Denver.

His absence leaves veteran starter Mike Phipps, 26, who will be backed up by Brian Sipe, 25. The No. 3 spot goes to Will Cureton, 23, who quarterbacked the team while the veterans were on strike.

The Buffalo Bills asked waivers on strong safety Cookie Brinkman and free agent defensive back Gary Birch.

A $5 million lawsuit has been filed against a football helmet manufacturer in behalf of permanently paralyzed former Miami Edison High School football player Greg Stead.

Stead suffered a broken neck on the opening kickoff of a game against Norland High School on Sept. 30, 1971 and is paralyzed from the neck down.

The suit was filed against Riddell Inc.

A candidate for the Pittsburgh Steelers offensive line was arrested and charged with attempting to sell 25,000 amphetamine pills to an undercover federal agent.

David Reavis, 24, was arrested by federal officials at the Steelers training camp in nearby Latrobe. He was released on $10,000 bond furnished by the team attorney after a preliminary hearing before a federal magistrate here.

Swimming

Ulrike Richter of East Germany smashed her own world record in the final of the 100 meter backstroke for women at the European swimming championships with a time of 1 minute 3.30 seconds.

Later, West Germany's Christel Justen broke the East German monopoly with a world record of 1:12.55 in the final of the 100 meter women's breaststroke.

Baseball

The California Angels named Billy Muffett to succeed Tom Morgan as the American League team's pitching coach.

Morgan resigned Wednesday night when he was told his contract would not be renewed for next season. He had coached Angel hurlers since 1970 after six years as the team's minor league pitching instructor.

Leftfielder Ray Bare has been recalled from the St. Louis Cardinals' Tulsa farm club to fill in this weekend for Rich Folkers, who will be fulfilling military obligations.

His name was Alfredo Edmond and in Thursday night's game the stylish minor league baseball ballplayer stole his 60th and 61st bases of the season, each time bouncing up with a grin.

In the sixth inning the 18-year-old Edmond charged in from his outfield position for a pop fly. He lunged for the ball but instead slammed into the outgoing second baseman.

An hour later, Edmond, considered one of the top players in the Pittsburgh Pirates' farm system, was dead.

Hockey

Barry Ashbee, former Philadelphia Flyers all-star defenseman whose career was cut short when he was struck in the eye by a hockey puck, has been named assistant coach with the Stanley Cup champions.

Anatoli Tarasov, the former coach of the Russian national team, became the first man from the Soviet Union inducted into the Hockey Hall of Fame here.

Basketball

The new St. Louis Spirits of American Basketball Association have announced they will try to land National Basketball Association veteran Earl Monroe of the New York Knicks.

The team said it had acquired exclusive negotiating rights to Monroe, and he had expressed an interest in coming to St. Louis when his contract with the Knicks expires at the end of the coming season.

Horse Racing

Holding Pattern, a surprise challenger for honors as 3-year-old of 1974, goes after a third straight stake triumph Saturday as the probable 9-5 favorite in the American Derby at Arlington Park.

Holding Pattern will carry top weight of 125 pounds in the field of 13 which will run the mile and a furlong on the grass course. But he drew the inside post position and will be ridden by Bill Gavida.

Royals Fall To Triplets

Omaha (UPI) — A run-scoring single in the seventh inning by John Gamble snapped a 2-2 deadlock and pointed Evansville to a 4-2 victory over the Omaha Royals Friday night.

The Triplets scored an insurance run in the eighth on an RBI single by Bob Molinaro as Vern Ruhle increased his record to 12-4. The right-hander scattered nine hits, including Jim Hoppe's sixth home run, and struck out six. He walked three.

Evansville overcame a triple play and two double plays turned in by the Royal defense.

The triple play occurred in the second after Bruce Kimm reached third and Ron Cash seceded. Chuck Scrivener looped a pop fly to short left that Omaha shortstop Bobby Floyd snared with his back to the infield. Floyd whirled and threw to second baseman Buddy Hunter to trap Cash. Kimm tagged at third and tried to score, but Hunter's throw to Catcher Tom Harmon cut him down.

Ag Institute Wants Better Wages

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Nebraska has set up a list of priority items it wants from the next meeting of the Nebraska Legislature.

Dr. Duane Acker, vice chancellor for the institute outlined his list of budget requests for members of the Nebraska Agricultural Council Friday.

"First will be an upgrading of salaries to level closer to the salaries on the other parts of the University; second, we want a new plant sciences building and a new office building at the Clay Center station and $67,000 in funds for development of the field laboratory at Meade restored from the funds resulting from the sale of the University farmland at the old Havelock farms," he said.

Acker told the council delegates salaries at the Institute of Agriculture ranked 20th in the nation in the 1964-65 year but were 41st last year.

The $67,000 fund which Acker wants restored to the development fund for the Meade field laboratory was used to make an initial improvement in agricultural staff wages last year.

Acker estimated that the cost of the plant science building would run somewhere between $6.75 million and $8 million. The new building would relieve overcrowded office and laboratory facilities for agronomy and plant pathology scientists at the institute.

The office building at Clay Center is becoming necessary because the staff is now housed at the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center which needs the space because of an expansion.

Ag Council To Invite Candidates

The Nebraska Agricultural Council, a collection of farm organizations in Nebraska, plans to invite all three candidates for governor to discuss their plans for state agriculture programs with their group.

"It won't be a debate. We will discuss the budget of the agricultural part of the university, water policy and general agricultural legislation with each candidate individually," said Doyle Free, president of the council.

Eugene Glock of Rising City, president of the Nebraska Soybean Association, asked the council's support of a soybean promotion program that would involve a half cent a bushel checkoff similar to the wheat checkoff program operated by the State Department of Agriculture.

Glock passed out copies of a proposed bill and asked that all organizations study the proposal and then forward suggestions to him for consideration.

The council voted to support legislation that would fund the Nebraska Land and Development Fund for use in expanding irrigation projects on the basis of increased income to the state treasury from new irrigation.

The council asked that the university's Bureau of Business Research develop an report estimating how much income the state treasury receives as a direct result of irrigation projects.

The council is also seeking information on cost-to-benefit ratios for a number of projects it plans to support before the 1975 Legislature.

"With the problems of drought and low livestock prices, we will have to justify everything we support on the basis of how much money it will put into the state treasury," Free warned.

Police Have Fresh Leads In Search For Holdup Man

Des Moines, Iowa (AP) — Asst. Police Chief Thomas Teale said Friday "several leads" have been received from the public in the search for a gunman who killed two persons and wounded two others in a holdup at the Downtown Holiday Inn.

They resulted from publication of a police "composite picture" of the gunman based on descriptions by eyewitnesses, he said.

The gunman killed Luis Trujillo, 22, assistant night auditor and bell captain of the motel, and Danny Peters, 21, a security guard, in the holdup early Thursday morning.

John Stewart, 23, a radio disc jockey from Lincoln, Neb., and Charles Nolte, 28, night auditor at the motel, were wounded. They are listed in fair condition at separate Des Moines hospitals.

Police are looking for a blackman, 20 to 30 years old, about five feet nine inches tall, with a short Afro hairstyle and wearing glasses.

The bandit took $269 from the motel's registration desk but scattered all except $61 of the loot in the parking lot as he fled the scene in a car.

Whelan's Criticism Rebutted

Sen. Richard Marvel said Friday if Gerald Whelan, the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, was so certain Marvel hasn't adequately represented his district, he could have done something about it long ago.

"Why didn't he run for the office I now hold?" asked Marvel, the Republican Party's gubernatorial candidate. "I've been unopposed for many years."

Both Marvel and Whelan are residents of Hastings.

Earlier, Whelan said while Marvel has done a good job as head of the Legislature's Budget Committee, he hasn't paid much attention to his district.

"At least Mr. Whelan acknowledges the fact that I'm qualified for the governorship by saying I've done a good job with the budget committee," Marvel said.

As to the claim of inadequate representation, Marvel said "I'm surprised that Mr. Whelan feels the attention I have paid to the budget of the Hastings Regional Center, which employs 600 to 700 people, as well as the budget of the Central Nebraska Technical Community College system, are minor items."

Holstein Man Electrocuted On Dump Truck

Potter (AP) — A 31-year-old Holstein man was electrocuted Friday when a dump truck bed came in contact with a 7,200 volt power line as it was coming to rest on the truck frame.

The Cheyenne County Sheriff's office identified the victim as Clifford Peterson.

Authorities said Peterson was serving as superintendent of an asphalt laying crew on Interstate 80 about two miles south of here.

Peterson was standing by the truck as the bed came into contact with the power line and authorities said the man must have touched the bed just as it came in contact with the line.

Peterson was pronounced dead-on-arrival at the Kimball County Hospital.

The driver of the truck, 23-year-old John Hampton of Mullen, jumped from the truck and avoided serious injury.

Ag Institute Wants Better Wages

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

The Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Nebraska has set up a list of priority items it wants from the next meeting of the Nebraska Legislature.

Dr. Duane Acker, vice chancellor for the institute outlined his list of budget requests for members of the Nebraska Agricultural Council Friday.

"First will be an upgrading of salaries to level closer to the salaries on the other parts of the University; second, we want a new plant sciences building and a new office building at the Clay Center station and $67,000 in funds for development of the field laboratory at Meade restored from the funds resulting from the sale of University farmland at the old Havelock farms," he said.

Acker told the council delegates salaries at the Institute of Agriculture ranked 20th in the nation in the 1964-65 year but were 41st last year.

The $67,000 fund which Acker wants restored to the development fund for the Meade field laboratory was used to make an initial improvement in agricultural staff wages last year.

Acker estimated that the cost of the plant science building would run somewhere between $6.75 million and $8 million. The new building would relieve overcrowded office and laboratory facilities for agronomy and plant pathology scientists at the institute.

The office building at Clay Center is becoming necessary because the staff is now housed at the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center which needs the space because of an expansion of the staff.

Glock passed out copies of a proposed bill and asked that all organizations study the proposal and then forward suggestions to him for consideration.

The council voted to support legislation that would fund the Nebraska Land and Development Fund for use in expanding irrigation projects on the basis of increased income to the state treasury from new irrigation.

Eugene Glock of Rising City, president of the Nebraska Soybean Association, asked the council's support of a soybean promotion program that would involve a half cent a bushel checkoff similar to the wheat checkoff program operated by the State Department of Agriculture.

Plans Made For Highway Fund

By CHARLES E. WIESER
United Press International

If a state lawsuit challenging the federal government's right to impound highway construction funds turns out favorably, Nebraska is geared up to swing into action and make use of the money.

That was the report Friday from State Engineer Thomas Doyle to the State Highway Commission.

He said what is envisioned is a one-year $112 million program which includes $21 million in state matching funds and some $90 in federal dollars.

On another matter, the commission unanimously approved a location project on Neb. 2 along Lincoln's south edge. The project calls for a four-lane facility to cope with increasingly heavy traffic flows in that area.

Before the vote, Dave Breslow, commission member from Lincoln, said approval of the project "is a little presumptuous" because as matters now stand, there won't be any money available to do the work for a long time.

As he has for many months, Breslow warned again: "Unless some real revenue is pumped into the highway department, we are going to fall farther and farther behind."

After Lincoln Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf briefly outlined the project, to which the city has given approval, Breslow urged him to do whatever he could to spur the building of needed roads.

The plans approved "don't mean a damn thing," Breslow said, unless there is money to implement them.

Ashland Mayor Delbert Lacey headed a Saunders County delegation which pleaded for action on problems stemming from use of Hwy. 63 through Ashland as a truck route.

Such utilization is "loaded with nothing but disadvantages and dangers," Lacey said.

There is one 12-foot, 10-inch underpass, he said, which has been the scene of nine accidents the past three years.

"This underpass was built 50 years ago to accommodate the horse and buggy or Model A weighing roughly one ton," Lacey said. "Today they are trying to push through 50 tons on one lane of this blind underpass."

Before the underpass is reached, the mayor said, the trucks pass over a 20-ton capacity bridge, further weakening the span which has already been damaged by repeated flood waters.

In Ashland's business district, Lacey said, the big rigs make two illegal turns taking both traffic lanes and on one "they run upon our sidewalk." In addition, a workshop for the retarded is only 29 feet from this "hell's trail, Hwy. 63," he said.

He also noted that within six blocks there are six school crossing lanes on the highway.

He asked the commission to consider "a feasible route north and east of Ashland" which trucks could use and requested a restriction or injunction against any large trucks coming through the city if they weigh more than 15 tons loaded.

Doyle said the road Lacey mentioned does not qualify for inclusion in the state system. But he said this finding could be appealed to the State Board of Classifications and Standards "so the door (on the request) is not closed."

Many of the trucks Lacey was objecting to haul gravel from a site north of Ashland, which was set up basically as a rail operation. A shortage of boxcars has apparently resulted in use of more trucks to move the gravel.

Legislature To Finish Legal Code

By ERIC KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

Within the next few months, the legislature will begin anew one of its most important functions: deciding what is legal and what is not.

Nebraska's criminal code contains sections dating well back into the 19th century. The legislature worked on a new criminal code last year, but didn't finish it.

The new criminal code will describe what acts are punishable as crimes and what punishments can be used.

The legislature's Judiciary Committee is scheduled to work on the code this fall and present a final copy to the legislature for approval in January.

Hot debate could come from both the committee and the floor of the legislature.

The legislature has passed a death penalty law since the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the old death penalty law. But new criminal code will replace the current capital punishment law. There will probably be groups who want the death penalty left out of the new criminal code. Others will want to limit its possible uses. Still others will want to broaden the use of capital punishment.

The death penalty will not be the only penalty in dispute. Do you send an armed robber to prison for two years or 20? An unarmed robber?

Is stealing a $300 steer worse than stealing $300 worth of anything else?

Should a criminal be allowed to pay a fine instead of going to jail. How much is it worth to stay out of jail? Or, how much would you fine a person to punish him as much as a 30-day jail sentence? Thirty dollars or 30 days?

There will be groups of people who want to change Nebraska's rape laws. Nebraska courts have long said that the prosecution needs more evidence than the testimony of the victim to get a rape conviction. The legislature could change that.

There will be groups who want to legalize prostitution. That option may be killed in committee or the question could go to the entire legislature.

It would be unusual if someone did not call for legalized gambling. Others might ask for legalized marijuana.

Then, there will be obscenity laws. Nebraska has a new one passed in the last session of the legislature.

The old obscenity law was upheld by the courts only days before it was repealed.

There will be those who say the new obscenity law is unconstitutional and must be replaced by a more liberal law, which would be more likely to stand the court test.

There will be those who think the present law is too liberal. They will want more restrictions on what they consider pornography.

There will be senators in the legislature who want to move very slowly on the criminal code. If the law is amended hastily and a mistake is made, innocent acts could be listed as crimes, or more likely, defense lawyers could use the flaw in the code to keep their clients out of prison.

Arnot To Join Research Center

Marie Arnot, director of the State Department of Economic Development community affairs division, has accepted a position with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, it was reported Friday.

Pending approval by the NU Board of Regents on Sept. 7, Mrs. Arnot will join the new Community Resource and Research Center on Sept. 9, according to CRRC Acting Director Ted B. Wright.

Wright told The Star Mrs. Arnot will hold the rank of associate professor of community and regional planning, and coordinator of community development.

The regents in May established the CRRC service and research program on a departmental level within the College of Architecture. Two of its units are the Community Design Center in Omaha, and an applied research unit at UNL.

Marie Arnot

Mrs. Arnot will work in a third CRRC arm, the Community Development Unit at UNL, which was transferred from the NU extension division.

Wright said Mrs. Arnot will take over the university's role in administering the Nebraska Community Improvement Program, on which NU cooperates jointly with the State Department of Economic Development.

She will also have a liaison appointment with the NU extension division, to integrate its programs with those of the College of Architecture, Wright said.

One of her major duties, he said, will be setting up a series of workshops on land use planning and "trying to interface state and local concerns," including those at various governmental levels.

Revenue was higher, $170.6 million this year against $129.1 million last year.

The financially-troubled carrier said its net loss for the first seven months of this year was $110.2 million compared with $121.9 million in the same period last year.

Total revenue for the seven month period was $1.3 billion versus last year's $1.1 billion.

Grain Elevator In Avoca Nearly Destroyed By Fire

Lincoln Star Special
Avoca — Eight volunteer fire departments from this area battled a blaze at the Lincoln Grain Company north elevator here Friday night.

Flames completely gutted the head house and downed some walls in the building, according to Kenneth Russell, elevator manager.

Although he didn't disclose the amount of damage, Russell

estimated that 75% of the structure was destroyed. He credited the Plattsmouth Fire Department's aerial ladder with saving the elevator from complete destruction.

The blaze broke out about 5 p.m. while workers were in the process of moving grain out of the elevator, Russell reported. By 8:30 p.m. the flames had been extinguished.

Helping Avoca firefighters battle the blaze were firemen from Plattsmouth, Union, Nehawka, Southeast Rural Lincoln, Syracuse, Otoo and Weeping Water.

The elevator is owned by George Lincoln of Lincoln.

Council Expected To OK Budget Of $103.6 Million

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

City Lawmakers are expected to take official action adopting a $103.6 million budget Monday, which calls for a slightly lower tax rate than this year's.

The mill levy for 1974-75 is expected to be 23.40, down 3 of a mill from this year's rate of 23.70.

That means property owners with a house actually valued at $20,000, would pay a city tax portion of $163.80. That is down $2.10 from the tax bill levied by the city for this year.

The new budget goes into effect Sept. 1 and will include some $839,611 worth of additions made to the mayor's proposals by the City Council during more than a month of budget meetings.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's proposed budget called for a levy of 22.17 mills.

A major chunk of the council's additions is tied up in additional pay increases for city workers next year. Originally the mayor proposed to give regular city Hall workers 5% and fire and police personnel 7½%.

The council granted all workers, including the mayor and department heads, a 7½% cost-of-living increase.

The projected $103.6 million budget is down from this year's record breaking $111.4 million package. However, that figure is somewhat misleading since the city included $20 million this year for construction of the state office building. The city will be reimbursed by the state.

Official action on the budget will come during the council's regular weekly meeting Monday, which begins at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers.

Dorms 'Approaching Capacity'

With fall semester classes beginning Monday at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, residence halls are "approaching capacity," Assistant Housing Director Dr. Kenneth G. Swerdlow said Friday.

He said an avalanche of contracts poured into the housing office during the last few days, and initial occupancy appears to exceed last year's.

Students during the past school year strongly criticized residence hall policies, saying if they weren't liberalized, students would abandon university housing for off-campus living.

The NU Board of Regents granted the students' appeals, allowing varieties of coed living, increased visitation hours with guests of the opposite sex, living porarily living in the top of Abel, where 168 beds are available, Swerdlow said there will be some no-shows and some students will move into fraternity and sorority houses. Thus, it appears Abel's top two floors will remain vacant.

Swerdlow said he's received 380 contracts in which one student will occupy a two-bed room. That number is almost 150 more than single contracts signed a year ago at this time, he said.

Although 36 men are now temporarily living in the top of Abel, where 168 beds are available, Swerdlow said there will be some no-shows and some students will move into fraternity and sorority houses. Thus, it appears Abel's top two floors will remain vacant.

Swerdlow said he's received 380 contracts in which one student will occupy a two-bed room. That number is almost 150 more than single contracts signed a year ago at this time, he said.

Plans Made For Highway Fund

By CHARLES E. WIESER
United Press International

If a state lawsuit challenging the federal government's right to impound highway construction funds turns out favorably, Nebraska is geared up to swing into action and make use of the money.

That was the report Friday from State Engineer Thomas Doyle to the State Highway Commission.

He said what is envisioned is a one-year $112 million program which includes $21 million in state matching funds and some $80 in federal dollars.

On another matter, the commission unanimously approved a location project on Neb. 2 along Lincoln's south edge. The project calls for a four-lane facility to cope with increasingly heavy traffic flows in that area.

Before the vote, Dave Breslow, commission member from Lincoln, said approval of the project "is a little presumptuous" because as matters now stand, there won't be any money available to do the work for a long time.

As he has for many months, Breslow warned again: "Unless some real revenue is pumped into the highway department,

we are going to fall farther and farther behind."

After Lincoln Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf briefly outlined the project, to which the city has given approval, Breslow urged him to do whatever he could to spur the building of needed roads.

The plans approved "don't mean a damn thing," Breslow said, unless there is money to implement them.

Ashland Mayor Delbert Lacey headed a Saunders County delegation which pleaded for action on problems stemming from use of Hwy. 63 through Ashland as a truck route.

Such utilization is "loaded with nothing but disadvantages and dangers," Lacey said.

There is one 12-foot, 10-inch underpass, he said, which has been the scene of nine accidents the past three years.

"This underpass was built 50 years ago to accommodate the horse and buggy or Model A weighing roughly one ton," Lacey said. "Today they are trying to push through 50 tons on one lane of this blind underpass."

Before the underpass is reached, the mayor said, the trucks pass over a 20-ton capacity bridge, further weakening the span which has already been damaged by repeated flood waters.

In Ashland's business district, Lacey said, the big rigs make two illegal turns taking both traffic lanes and on one "they run upon our sidewalk." In addition, a workshop for the retarded is only 29 feet from this "hell's trail, Hwy. 63," he said.

He also noted that within six blocks there are six school crossing lanes on the highway.

He asked the commission to consider "a feasible route north and east of Ashland" which trucks could use and requested a restriction or injunction against any large trucks coming through the city if they weigh more than 15 tons loaded.

Doyle said the road Lacey mentioned does not qualify for inclusion in the state system. But he said this finding could be appealed to the State Board of Classifications and Standards "so the door (on the request) is not closed."

Many of the trucks Lacey was objecting to haul gravel from a site north of Ashland, which was set up as a rail operation. A shortage of boxcars has apparently resulted in use of more trucks to move the gravel.

Marx Brothers Frolic Again

Harpo chased a couple girls around the lobby, Groucho threaded his way through the crowd, grinning and twitching his eyebrows and Chico proclaimed that "everybody's a-crazy." Then, after running through a few routines, all three went in to watch the Marx brothers' film "Animal Crackers." Seeing the show as the wages the three young men earned for staging the promotional stunt at the Plaza Four Theater.

Mark (Chico) Olson, 17, Jeff (Harpo) Beler, 17, and Steve (Groucho) Paulson, 18, have been doing Marx brother's routines at Southeast High School for two years. Last year they emceed the "Night of Knights" variety show at the school. Paulson has worked at the theatre, which led to manager Bruce Harmon's suggestion they do their act in the theatre lobby.

Legislature To Finish Legal Code

By ERIC KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

Within the next few months, the legislature will begin anew one of its most important functions: deciding what is legal and what is not.

Nebraska's criminal code contains sections dating well back into the 19th century. The legislature worked on a new criminal code last year, but didn't finish it.

The new criminal code will describe what acts are punishable as crimes and what punishments can be used.

The legislature's Judiciary Committee is scheduled to work on the code this fall and present a final copy to the legislature for approval in January.

Hot debate could come from both the committee and the floor of the legislature.

The legislature has passed a death penalty law since the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the old death penalty law. But new criminal code will replace the current capital punishment law. There will probably be groups who want the death penalty left out of the new criminal code. Others will want to limit its possible uses. Still others will want to broaden the use of capital punishment.

The death penalty will not be the only penalty in dispute. Do you send an armed robber to prison for two years or 20? An unarmed robber?

Is stealing a $300 steer worse than stealing $300 worth of anything else?

Should a criminal be allowed to pay a fine instead of going to jail. How much is it worth to stay out of jail? Or, how much would you fine a person to punish him as much as a 30-day jail sentence? Thirty dollars or 30 days?

There will be groups of people who want to change Nebraska's rape laws. Nebraska courts have long said that the prosecution needs more evidence than the testimony of the victim to get a rape conviction. The legislature could change that.

There will be groups who want to legalize prostitution. That option may be killed in committee or the question could go to the entire legislature.

It would be unusual if someone did not call for legalized gambling. Others might ask for legalized marijuana.

Then, there will be obscenity laws. Nebraska has a new one passed in the last session of the legislature.

The old obscenity law was upheld by the courts only days before it was repealed.

There will be those who say the new obscenity law is unconstitutional and must be replaced by a more liberal law, which would be more likely to stand the court test.

There will be those who think the present law is too liberal. They will want more restrictions on what they consider pornography.

There will be senators in the legislature who want to move very slowly on the criminal code. If the law is amended hastily and a mistake is made, innocent acts could be listed as crimes, or more likely, defense lawyers could use the flaw in the code to keep their clients out of prison.

Arnot To Join Research Center

Marie Arnot, director of the State Department of Economic Development community affairs division, has accepted a position with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, it was reported Friday.

Pending approval by the NU Board of Regents on Sept. 7, Mrs. Arnot will join the new Community Resource and Research Center on Sept. 9, according to CRRC Acting Director Ted B. Wright.

Wright told The Star Mrs. Arnot will hold the rank of associate professor of community and regional planning, and coordinator of community development.

The regents in May established the CRRC service and research program on a departmental level within the College of Architecture. Two of its units are the Community Design Center in Omaha, and an applied research unit at UNL.

Marie Arnot

Mrs. Arnot will work in a third CRRC arm, the Community Development Unit at UNL, which was transferred from the NU extension division.

Wright said Mrs. Arnot will take over the university's role in administering the Nebraska Community Improvement Program, on which NU cooperates jointly with the State Department of Economic Development.

She will also have a liaison appointment with the NU extension division, to integrate its programs with those of the College of Architecture, Wright said.

One of her major duties, he said, will be setting up a series of workshops on land use planning and "trying to interface state and local concerns," including those at various governmental levels.

Grain Elevator In Avoca Nearly Destroyed By Fire

Lincoln Star Special

Avoca — Eight volunteer fire departments from this area battled a blaze at the Lincoln Grain Company north elevator here Friday night.

Flames completely gutted the head house and downed some walls in the building, according to Kenneth Russell, elevator manager.

Although he didn't disclose the amount of damage, Russell

estimated that 75% of the structure was destroyed. He credited the Plattsmouth Fire Department's aerial ladder with saving the elevator from complete destruction.

The blaze broke out about 5 p.m. while workers were in the process of moving grain out of the elevator, Russell reported. By 8:30 p.m. the flames had been extinguished.

Helping Avoca firefighters battle the blaze were firemen from Plattsmouth, Union, Nehawka, Southeast Rural Lincoln, Syracuse, Otoe and Weeping Water.

The elevator is owned by George Lincoln of Lincoln.

Manke Named Scout District's First Chairman

Otto Manke this week became the first chairman of a newly-formed Boy Scouts district of Lancaster County.

The district is the product of three previous Boy Scouts districts that were merged under a consolidation project by the Cornhusker Council of Boy Scouts, according to district officer Ken Peterson.

Lancaster County is District III of four districts in the council which covers southeast Nebraska.

There were eight before the consolidations. Manke will be in charge of 123 packs and troops, including more than 5,400 boys and adult leaders, Peterson said.

Other District III officers will be Keith Huffer, scout chairman; Merle Howe, scout chairman; Doug Anderson, manpower resources chairman; Peterson, public relations; and Joe Hageman, finance chairman.

Public Works Position Filled

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf announced Friday the appointment of Bob Snow to fill the newly created post of Public Assistance Officer in the Public Works Department.

Snow, 3430 Washington, will be on the job Sept. 2 and will be paid $13,200 a year. He currently is in the public relations division of the Lincoln Alcohol Safety Action Project.

The new city job was created when the City Council approved the Action Plan for street planning. Snow will work with the Citizens Advisory Committee which will monitor the plan.

Additionally, Snow will meet with neighborhood groups on proposed street projects and will disseminate information to the public.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked squares give you.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
